MEXICAN WAR SUMMARY

Carranza aids claim to have located Villa. Pursuit of bandit and Carranza refuses to believe him dead. Reports from many sources indicate Pancho is either dead or cannot survive much longer. Chico continues. Three Mexicans killed by firing squad at Juarez as plotters. Mexican Carranza. W. E. D. Stokes, New York reporter, says he is anxious to see Diaz, and that Mexican seems friendly toward United States. Diaz can command 25,000 men.

WITH GEN. PERSHING AT THE FRONT, via aeroplane to Columbus, N. M., April 11.—[Special]—Although there is a general Mexican belief here that Francisco Villa is dead, Gen. Pershing says he will believe the report only when he finds the body of the bandit and it is identified beyond question of doubt.

(By Associated Press.)
Mexico City, April 11.—Francisco Villa has left the main body of his command and is hiding, almost unnoticed, in the Sierra mountains of Chihuahua, according to information given him at the war department today. The last of his retreating forces passed through the town of Cuauhtemoc, Chihuahua, yesterday, in their flight toward the mountains. They were closely pursued by forces of the Alvaro Obregon government, who hope to capture the bandit and locate their leader. For this purpose, 4,500 reinforcements have been ordered to the scene by War Minister Obregon. These troops, including cavalry and infantry, are now in four sides in the region where Villa is said to be hiding. The war department expresses great hope of the early capture of the bandit.

Chihuahua is about fifty miles west of Ciudad Juarez and about 100 miles from the border. Previous reports located the bandit near the Durango.

EUROPEAN WAR SUMMARY

French retake trenches won by Germans between Douaumont and Vaux after terrific battle. Germans fighting hard for possession of Dead Man's Hill. Both Rome and Vienna report heavy artillery actions along whole front; no important infantry movements.

Russians and Germans continue fierce battle along Donau river; Tsar campaign designed to prevent Austrians from augmenting forces before Verdun. O. K. H. Freiberg's.

Freiberg's hall, which was closed at one time, was given a badge of respectability for its outward appearance by the investigators.

If any one attempts to solicit women or acts indecently in any way in Freiberg's, he is at once thrown out," says the report. "But there is every evidence to show that under the fair cover of the old vicious practices are still carried on."

The closing of the eight theaters on State street is creating dismay among the rooming houses, where dependence was had upon transient one night rooms, is another startling report.

Friends to All.

Ald. Coughlin and Kenna, as the friends of the immigrant, the workingman, the vice resort keeper, and everybody whose friendship can help them keep control of the sources of revenue, are also described in a vivid manner.

The First ward is the childless ward. In residential wards there is an average of one child to every voter. In the First ward the average is one child to every six voters. In the Sixth ward the death rate is 9.7 to 1,000, while in the First ward it is 30.7 per 1,000.

"The object of the survey," said the pastor of the Wabash Avenue church, the Rev. W. H. Pierce, "is to enable the church to map out a constructive program for remedying the conditions so far as they are bad."

The First ward, with its 552 saloons and its numerous theaters, dance halls, and rooming houses, is being again investigated. Ald. "Earthquake" John Coughlin and "Hinky Dink" Kenna are also subjects of the survey.

More than thirty persons under the direction of R. W. Miller of the University of Chicago have been at work for months in a visitation of every nook and corner of the ward. Next Tuesday night the result of the survey is to be laid before the authorities of the Methodist Episcopal church presided over by Bishop W. F. McDowell in a meeting called for the purpose in the Wabash avenue church.

FIGHTING REPUBLICAN FACTIONS IN COOK COUNTY

Neither the city hall, Deneen, nor Brundage factions won an actual majority of the new county committee.

The biggest and most portentous politics that can be imagined started to cook as soon as the primary returns were known. Brundage men claimed they will be in control of the county committee and that Mayor Thompson will be eliminated as an organization functionist.

HARLAN BAD LOSER.

John Maynard Harlan lost badly in his attempt to break the Sherman slate for delegates at large to the Republican national convention.

City Clerk John Siman in the Sixth congressional district and City Treasurer Charles H. Sarge in the Thirty-second have cut through the list of Sherman delegates and won independent races.

Downstate the Sherman ticket had a walkaway. Harlan and Mayor Thompson fought for last place in the earliest returns and at 2 o'clock this morning Associated Press tabulations indicated Harlan would be between 15,000 and 20,000 behind the lowest man of the Sherman slate and it looked as though Mayor Thompson would be the low man.

STATE CONTROL IN DOUBT.

The Republican state committee control is in doubt because of the complication arising out of the three-cornered deadlock in Cook county.

Negotiations that were in progress through the early morning hours will deal with the county and state committees, based upon a probable amalgamation of the Deneen and Brundage factions in head of the Republican ticket in Chicago. Medill McCormick, from the last man, State Chairman General Kinney of Peoria. Harlan was fifth. National Committeeman Roy O. West was seventh, leading Mayor Thompson by 103 votes in the city police totals.

MAYOR WINS IN COUNTY.
In Cook county, complete, Mayor Thompson slipped into last place. The mayor was 1,362 behind West in Cook county.

Chicago's vote, complete, on the face of the police returns for Republican delegates at large follows:

COOK COUNTY VOTE ON STATE COMMITTEE

The vote of the ten Cook counts districts on state central committees in both big parties is as follows:

PEOPLES' VOTE.
As a result of the ward primaries there will be no boss of the Republican county committee. William H. Weber, son and Charles S. Denen, his own wards. The independent committeemen have been known as "peoples," as between the efforts of Denen and Thompson to control, will have votes enough to organize the county committee and the county convention.

"Tonight the independents are assured of the following:

Denses Loss Spectacular.
The defeat of former Gov. Deneen was held by Mayor Thompson and Fred Lundin to be a 100 per cent dividend upon all that had been put into the campaign by the city hall faction. It was the one spectacular feature of the day.

Deneen's defeat was attributed to what happened the night said last night.

"Of course, the city hall won," one of the Deneen lieutenants in Englewood said. "They spent money freely and copiously. They used every ounce of pressure that could be exerted through every form of license that is issued through the city hall."

The third three-cornered contest in the Twenty-sixth was won by the Brundage wing. This was one of the most significant happenings in the Republican primaries. Isaac J. Bryan was the Deneen entry and Samuel L. Hamilton had been prepared to slip through the city hall, while the anti-Thompson strength was splitting between Schmidt and Bryan.

The mayor lost his own ward, the Twenty-third, by more than a thousand. He had the support of the Deneen lieutenants in Englewood.

Grave Situation—Scully.

"Their appearance in political fights," he continued, "creates a grave situation, and one that is particularly difficult to meet. These thugs and gunmen can ride around in motor cars from precinct to precinct, stopping in a few minutes to do their work, then escaping without much difficulty. It probably would require three policemen in every polling place to stop a crime in the activities of the auto slugs."

"In many polling places plain clothes men were on duty. I believe that they should all be uniform. The thugs might then pay some attention to them. I have several reports where detectives were unable to stop the rioting simply because nobody paid any attention to them."

"Sluggers" Wards.

The political battles grounds where the "wrecking crews" were reported as operating in motor cars included the Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-eighth wards.

Francis D. Connelly, chairman of the board of election commissioners and controller of the drainage board, was the most prominent victim of the auto slugs. Shortly after, he stepped from a street car at Milwaukee and Wabansia avenues and he was surrounded by nearly a dozen men who had driven up in two yellow machines.

"Mr. Connelly was badly beaten and slugged," said a member of his family at night. "They knocked him down, kicked his side, broke two teeth, and left him helpless on the pavement. The injuries won't prove serious, and we are glad it has not been worse."

It was that "Fachsen" crowd that did it.

Altogether as many complaints reached the Citizens' Association from the Twentieth ward, where Dennis J. Egan, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners, was fighting for the ward committee members, as from all the other wards in the city combined.

State Senator John J. Boehm, Egan's successor, and Frank J. Pitts, Sherman's candidate for delegate to the national convention, asserted that their challengers were being denied their rights, and some voters were being given beatings.

Judges Elector.

The Third precinct of the Twentieth ward, according to Senator Boehm, not only were his challengers refused the right to challenge suspected voters but the judges in the polling place left their posts and went out to the sidewalk to argue politics and candidates with voters. Shelby Singleton, secretary of the Citizens' association, complained to the Chicago Tribune that the challenges to Carl C. Egan, who promised to nominate Boehm, were not being made to the challengers for candidate Boehm.

Op-atives of Burns' Detective Agency, working during the day through the city for the Citizens' association, reported in the Fifth precinct of the Twentieth ward judges disregarded the challenges of Boehm's watchers, and also argued politics. Boehm and Pitts were present when the alleged misdeeds took place.

Twelve "Repeaters" in Auto.

Just before the polls closed at night twelve "repeaters" drove up in an automobile to the polling place in the Second precinct of the Tenth ward, at 1321 South Wabash street, and tried to vote.

They were stopped by police and Detective Sergeant Theodore Bristol of the Maxwell street station attempted to oust the men from the polling place. In the melee that followed Bristol was thrown to the floor and beaten and kicked. The slugs escaped, although the police, responding to a riot call, tried to overtake them.

Three of the auto crew who were alleged to have been working in the Eighteenth ward, were captured in the neighborhood of West Madison street and Ashland avenue.

Burned for Several Blocks.

Motorcycle Policemen Eisenberg and Schulz succeeded in rounding up the speeding black car and its occupants after a chase extending over several blocks. At one point the car stopped for a second, and three men made their escape into Democratic headquarters at 1300 South Dearborn street.

Those arrested were George M. Thorne, 407 South California avenue; Ernest F. Taylor, 2244 West Jackson boulevard, and Joseph Ryan, 1847 West Adams street.

Thorne, the driver, said the other men had hired the car in the interests of "Barney" Grogan, Sullivan candidate for committee man in the Eighteenth ward. Two partly amputated revolvers were found in the car by the police.

Kelleher May Lose Eye.

Michael Kelleher, Republican captain of the Tenth precinct of the Twentieth ward, may lose his eye as a result of being hit at the polls.

Kelleher was appointed official challenger for A. M. Liebling, publisher of the Daily Jewish Press, anti-Thompson candidate for ward committee man against Morris Eller, city sealer. Kelleher said nineteen supporters of Eller had voted the Democratic ticket at the primaries, but they all were permitted to vote for Eller after being advised by Louis Krakow, the manager.

As a result of his contentious two men stepped from behind Kelleher and struck him in the face with sticks. The injured man was carried to the office of David Ackerman, who dressed his wounds and ordered him to bed. At night a crowd of drunken Eller supporters surrounded the Kelleher home at 1436 South Dearborn street, and after hearing abuse from the Liebling worker, threw a rock through his window.

He gave Eller 27 votes and bricks. Both McGrath and Faulkner were arrested.

SAYS HOYNE'S DETECTIVES INTIMIDATED MRS. SCHOOP.

Francis A. Becker Charges They Tried to Make Her Say She Paid Him Graft.

An attempt to intimidate Mrs. Paul Schoop, the Basile grand dame of a former saloonkeeper, is believed to have been made last night by Detectives George Murphy, Carson, and Sweeney from State's Attorney Hoyne's office. They went to the former saloon and demanded to know if Mrs. Schoop was going to testify to the $25 protection money to Francis A. Becker, of West Huron street. The latter, the wife was recently indicted by the grand jury in connection with the alleged collusive testimony of the accused carrier boy, when he was held in custody on charges of the shooting of the incident, the detective told the Chicago avenue station and asked that detectives be sent to arrest the three men from the state's attorney's office.

Becker asserted that after Detective Sergeant Murphy is alleged to have demanded whether Mrs. Schoop would tell what she paid money to Becker to be allowed to leave his office, she told him she did not know him and never paid her money.

Becker told Becker, according to the latter's story,

Body Which Freed Bandits
Should Be in Joliet or an Asylum, He Says.

Seething criticism of the jurors who brought in a verdict of not guilty for three of the youths tried for the holdup and robbery of St. Luke's hospital was made yesterday by the State's Attorney Hoyne.

He termed the verdict an outrage, and made the flat assertion that the jurors for their action should be either in the penitentiary or the insane asylum.

Showed Conclusive Guilt.

His statement, made when he was asked for an opinion as to the verdict, is as follows:

"Evidence presented for the state in the case of these youths showed conclusively that they should be acquitted, in the face of that evidence, is astounding, incomprehensible, and outrageous."

"In view of the evidence and the consequent acquittal, it is my opinion that the jurors themselves should be either in Joliet penitentiary or the Chester asylum for the criminal insane. That is all I care to say on the subject."

These are the Jurors,

The names of the jurors who tried the alleged bandits are: Joseph Andreucci, foreman; Gordon Cowen, Charles G. Molzahn, George W. Gennhausen, W. H. M. Holly, Joseph M. Kemp, Julius Weidner, Henry E. Dunlap, G. S. Hagan, Joseph J. Hammer, Ralph O. Irvin, and J. Keltz.

Foreman Andreucci was reached by telephone last night, and the statement read to him.

"Well, that's some statement," he said. "You can't prevent any man from saying what they think anyway, can you? I don't care to talk about it. Besides, all the jurors have an agreement not to say anything talking about the case."

All that Juror Dunlap would say was that "the statement is certainly rich."

ROOSEVELT SECOND CHOICE OF NUMEROUS DELEGATES.

Indications that La Follette, Cummins and Ford Men Will Swing to Colonial as an Alternative.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.] Events of the last few days, including the selection of Senator Harding of Ohio for the temporary chairmanship of the Republican national convention, indicate that Col. Roosevelt will be the second choice of the La Follette, Cummins, and Ford delegates to the convention, according to the colonel's friends in congress.

Although La Follette is bitter towards Roosevelt, it is said that his delegates will support Roosevelt in preference to any man the Taft leaders in the party may choose.

Also it becomes known that within the last two days eastern leaders have summoned out the Cummins managers to see where they stand with respect to a second choice candidate. The reply was that the Cummins delegates would be for Cummins first, last, and all of the time, but would go to Roosevelt in case Cummins released them.

ROGER SWEEPS STATE AND CITY FOR DEMOCRATS

Harrison Carries Only Seven
Chicago Wards, but May Win Convention Seat.

Harrison has fallen outside the coveted eighth place.

The scattering out state figures, however, indicate that Sullivan, Switzer,

Rainey, and Gov. Dunne are safely in the lead to the finish and will certainly be returned winners.

RETURNS FROM 443 PRECINCTS

Return from 443 precincts out of 2,926

in the state place six of the eight who carried Chicago in the lead. They are

Switzer, Sullivan, Rainey, Harrison,

Crighton, and Dunne. The two who failed to land inside the dead line in Chicago but who are running up with the eight downstate in the 443 precincts are

Pease and Bindell.

State Broken in Places.

While the Sullivan forces appear to have an overwhelming control of the Illinois delegation to the national convention, the Dunne-Lewis forces smashed

the slate in some of the downstate districts.

The delegation, it is understood, will vote as a unit and all are instructed to support Wilson, so there will be no trouble on that point.

There will be no opposition to National Committeeman Boeschstein for re-selection, it is stated at the Sullivan

headquarters last night.

Can Even Up Scores.

Mr. Sullivan, too, is now in a position to write any platform he may desire in the state convention, and in such position it will be up to him to say how far they shall go in pointing with pride to the administration of President Wilson.

It is understood that Mr. Sullivan will head a few batches of coal fire upon the head of Quincy and Michael J. Daugherty of Galesburg. The two men, appeared to have been elected over Lyman

McCarthy of Quincy and Edward E. Berg-leaves of Galva, the Sullivan candidates.

The Dunne-Lewis won in the Seventeenth district, electing James J. Murphy of Bloomington over Silas A. Rathbun of Pontiac

and Peter Murphy of Lincoln, the Sullivan candidates.

Split in the Thirteenth.

In the Thirteenth district the Sullivan and Dunne forces split the delegation,

Sullivan getting Martin J. Dillon of Ge-len and Dunne getting C. J. Dittmar of Freeport.

The large majority of delegates to the national convention allied with the Sullivan faction probably will eliminate the chance of a contest before the national committee. If this is done it will be the first time in some twenty years that it has not been forced to defend the credentials of his delegation, both before the national governing body and sometimes on the floor of the convention.

Triumph Over Former Mayor.

In the final return, too, show the defeat of former Mayor Harrison for delegate at large, while Mr. Sullivan's small triumph over the former mayor, and the success of the Sullivan-Dunne-Lewis combination represents the rank and file of the Democratic state and that President Wilson will have to look to the man who

"made him president at Baltimore," as

Colonel McCormick, the Democratic national committee said in the senatorial contest for any words of praise in the national convention for sixteen years.

In all these contests Sullivan was piloted as a "train robber convention"

manipulator, but this time the people have named the delegates, and if Mr. Harrison had not been beaten, Mr. Sullivan's cup of success will be brimming full, according to his close friends.

Biggest Victory He Has Won.

Mr. Sullivan, it was pointed out, will have the "eyes of the nation" on him

at Springfield when his state convention

meets in Springfield on April 21. Illinois is looked upon as the winning state.

The entire nation is looking forward to the results of the convention.

VERDUN FRENCH RETAKE GROUND LOST TO ENEMY

Drive Germans from Trenches East of the Meuse—Dead Man's Hill Battle On.

PARIS, April 11.—There was a cessation of the German infantry assaults to the west of the Meuse today, although the bombardment of the French lines between Le Mort Homme and Cumières continued, according to the official communication issued by the war office to-night.

A powerful attack, however, was delivered against the French trenches between Dousmont and Vaux, east of the Meuse. The Germans at that point succeeded in gaining a foothold in some of the advanced trenches, but were driven out by a counter attack.

FRANCE WAR REPORT.

The text of the statement follows:

North of Aisne our artillery took under its fire a strong German force which was moving along the highway called the Chemin des Dames. The well directed fire caused serious losses to the enemy.

In the Argonne our artillery was active against the whole enemy front.

West of the Meuse there was quite an intense bombardment during the course of the day against our front extending from Le Mort Homme to Cumières, but no infantry action.

East of the Meuse, after violent artillery preparation which was completed by an intensive discharge of lacrymogenic shells, the Germans about 4 o'clock launched a strong attack against our trenches between Dousmont and Vaux. The enemy who had gained a footing in some of the advanced sectors of our line, was driven out by a later, or a counter attack of our troops, in the course of which about 100 unwounded German prisoners, including one officer, were taken.

LONG RANGE GUNS ACTIVE.

In the Woëvre artillery actions occurred in the sectors of Montaiguville, Ronvilliers, and Chaudunville. St. Mihé, where long range guns successfully cannonaded a waiting train to the north of Houdcourt station.

There was no occurrence of importance on the rest of the front.

Last night one of our aerial squadrons dropped twenty-seven and twenty-one bombs respectively on the stations at Nanillys and Brélieux. The same squadron covered with projectiles the emplacement of a 350 gun, which was firing at long range.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

BERLIN, via London, April 11.—British troops made a strong hand grenade attack last night after intensified artillery preparation against the German positions south of St. Eloi, near Ypres, but the attack was repulsed and the position is firmly held by the Germans, according to the following official statement issued at army headquarters:

The British, after intensified artillery fire, made a strong hand grenade attack last night on our position south of St. Eloi. The attack broke down before the mine craters occupied by us. The position is firmly in our hands over its whole extent.

In the Argonne near La Fille Morte and farther to the east near Vauquois the French, who caused several mine explosions, succeeded only in inflicting damage on themselves.

Fighting proceeded with great vigor throughout the whole of yesterday in the region on both sides of the Meuse.

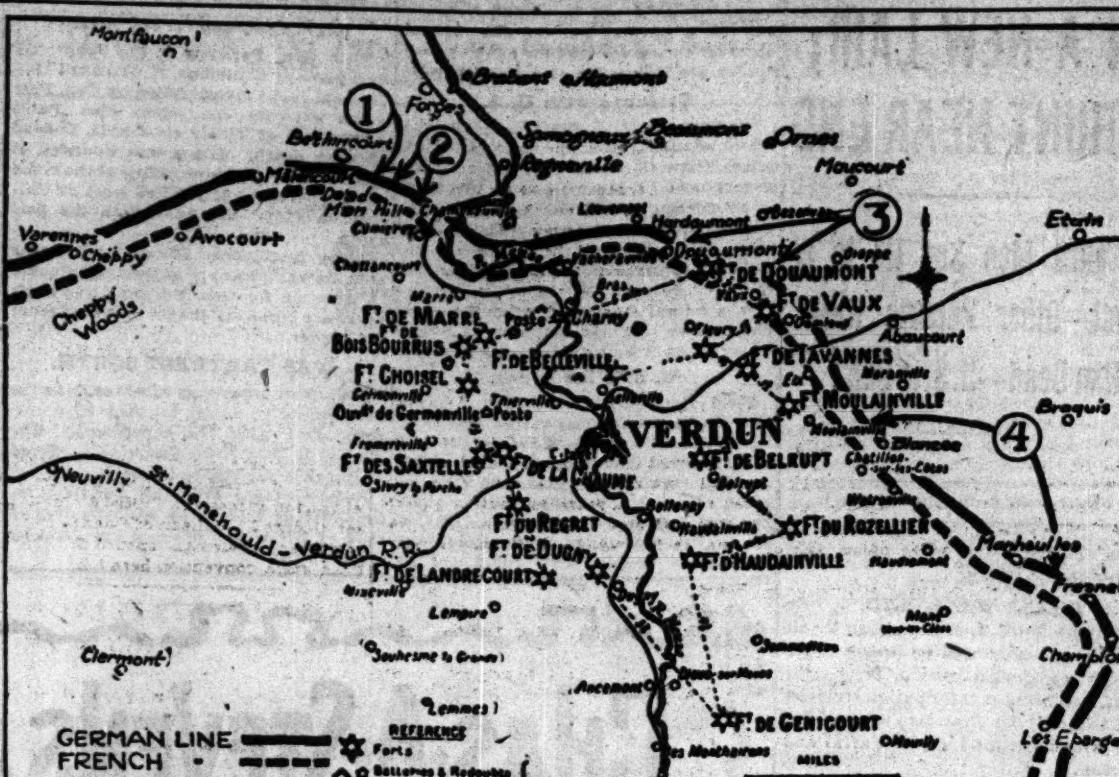

Counter attacks by the French in the positions were concentrated south of Forges Rivière, between Haucourt and Bethincourt, broke down with severe loss to the enemy.

The number of unwounded prisoners taken here was increased from twenty-two officers and 546 men to thirty-six officers and 1,231 men, and the body captured to two cannon and twenty-two machine guns.

One machine gun and 222 prisoners were brought in at the result of further captures among the blockhouses south of Raven's Forest.

WILSON COURSE WITH GERMANY IS DECIDED ON

Details Kept Secret, but Five Possible Actions Are Put Before Cabinet.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.]—President Wilson had his divided cabinet wrestled for two hours today with the problem of the policy to be pursued in respect to the latest phase of the submarine controversy with Germany.

After the meeting adjourned one of the chief spokesmen of the president said that Mr. Wilson had "made up his mind," but declined to go into detail. The president declined to give any indication of his attitude for publication, and the members of the cabinet said that while the matter had been thoroughly discussed, they had no idea what action Mr. Wilson eventually would take in dealing with Germany.

No Action Before Friday.

The indications are that nothing will be done by the administration in regard to the recent disasters attributed to German submarines until after the cabinet meeting next Friday at the earliest. By that time Secretary of State Lansing expects to have the text of the German government's denial of responsibility for the fate of the Sussex and disclaimer of wrong conduct in sinking the four vessels on which Americans were placed in jeopardy. He also expects to have the evidence of the alleged torpedoing of the Sussex being forwarded by Ambassadors Page and Sharp.

The Possible Courses.

The principal possible courses of action discussed by the cabinet, as learned, are:

Severity of diplomatic relations.

Delivery to Germany of an ultimatum demanding within a specified time franked assurances that the submarine warfare of all merchant vessels of whatever nationality be conformed to the rules of international law.

Issuance of a statement for the information of all the belligerent powers setting forth the conditions under which merchant vessels may and may not be sunk by submarines.

Submission of all the facts available in all the cases under discussion to

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY IN THE EUROPEAN WAR

Washington prepared a note to England asking that prize court action on American cargoes be expedited.

congress for determination of the policy to be pursued.

Despatch of a final note to Germany embodying the cumulative evidence in the five pending cases and demanding frank and satisfactory assurances of respect for American rights on the high seas.

The war faction of the cabinet, headed by Secretary of State Lansing, argued at length in favor of drastic action. The premier and his adherents are convinced that a German submarine torpedoed the Sussex, the German denial to the contrary notwithstanding, and that German submarine commanders violated the neutrality of the United States in sinking the Englishman, Manchester, Engineer, Eagle Point, and Birkenhead.

Burleson for Delay.

The peace party, headed by Postmaster General Burleson, opposed the contentious of the war faction throughout the session. These members counseled a moderate course, pointing out that the German reply to the American inquiries is likely to amplify the assurances given the United States several months ago as to cover freight vessels as well as passenger liners.

The cabinet spent considerable time discussing the question of the whole matter to the coming Friday. The peace faction favors this course if the president decides that drastic action of any kind should be taken against Germany.

The president said that before he took any action he would confer with the Senate foreign relations and house foreign affairs committees.

The moderates in the cabinet believe that the best way to meet the situation is to wait for the president to decide any action he might see fit to take, even a severance of diplomatic relations or the dispatch of a stiff ultimatum to Germany.

They also believe, however, that if the question of shaping the policy recommended by the president, the national legislators would prove unwilling to authorize drastic action on the basis of the evidence in the pending five cases.

Interesting Booklet on Investments

THE desire of people to make the most out of their invested funds is universal. Many people, however, do not get the most out of their funds because of a lack of knowledge regarding safe investments. We are trying to meet this situation through a series of educational booklets on investment bonds. Among our booklets we especially recommend for those who are not familiar with bonds one entitled "The Most Satisfactory Bonds." This booklet goes at length into the investigations we conduct into the bonds we sell before we put our own funds into them and gives an inside view of the buying end of a large bond house.

In addition to this it gives numerous charts showing the growth of various companies and comparing the prices of different classes of bonds over a period of years. To any one who is interested in the safe investment of either large or small funds this booklet will be of interest.

You will incur no obligation by asking for this booklet. We shall be pleased to send it upon request with circular C-28, regardless of the size of your funds or your present intention to invest. Telephone Wabash 3980.

Dear Sirs:-

So much newspaper comment has been made of late about the difficulties of obtaining for clothing, fabrics that are all wool and fast color, that we feel it necessary to depart from our usual custom of ignoring newspaper statements regarding trade conditions.

We are therefore saying to our wholesale friends, just as we propose to state publicly in our advertisements to our retail trade, that our fabrics for the coming season will be absolutely all wool and fast color, as always.

There will be no change in our standard for fabrics and tailoring.

Our policy of early purchases in a season like this, altogether unprecedented, enables us to quote to you prices for the coming season for all wool, fast color clothing, that will bear comparison with those that will be asked generally for inferior fabrics, sold without the guarantee of either all wool or fast color.

Yours truly,

JUAREZ GRAVES OF 3 DIAZ MEN WARN PLOTTERS

General, Private, and Lone Peon Shot Against Wall at Old Death House.

BY WALTER NOBLE BURNS.
El Paso, Tex., April 11.—(Special)—
Three men died between a line of rifles and an adobe wall at sunrise this morning in Juarez.

They were Nicholas Chavarres, a former general under Francisco Villa; Florencio Hernandez, a private soldier in the Carrancista garrison commanded by Gen. Gabriel Gavira at Juarez, and Jose Yanez Borrell, a peon.

They were accused with plotting against the Carrancistas.

No one along the border believes Diaz has the ghost of a chance ever to conduct a successful revolution in Mexico. So the trio died futilely striving in a hopeless cause.

LED OUT BEFORE DAWN.

It was 4:30 o'clock in the morning that a detail of forty men from the Twenty-seventh regiment of Carranza troops marched from their barracks and halted in front of the Cuartel Militar, facing the public square in the heart of the city. There was not a hint of dawn in the sky. Big yellow stars were blinking in the moonless heavens. Juarez was a scene of new curiosities round hung on the corners.

The condemned men were led from the cells bound together by a hempen rope. The march to the place of execution two miles away in the cemetery in the southwestern suburbs was taken up in silence.

Dawn had come over the Rio Grande flats when the columns reached the cemetery. In the growing light the shadowy masses of the Casas Grandes mountains stood out in bold relief.

REACH OLD DEATH HOUSE.

There was a momentary halt. A sergeant opened the cemetery gate. The column passed through. A semi-circle was formed along the eastern side of a small one-story adobe house in the center of a cemetery which three corners stood. The adobe house has been a house of death for years—for so many years the oldest inhabitants of Juarez have lost the count. It is said that men have been shot against it since the days when Maximilian was emperor of Mexico.

FIRST VICTIM DIES GAME.

Chavarres died first. He walked bravely to his place against the wall. He was smoking a cigarette. He puffed his cigar de hola quickly as if it were an after dinner smoke. The firing squad of six men lined up. The old villa general took off his sugar loaf sombrero and dropped it on the ground. It is considered good form by Mexicans to uncover the sombrero when addressing the commandments of even the lowliest peon in his last hours against an adobe wall. It is picturesquely characteristic.

"Aimien!" came the sharp command from the captain.

The firing squad leveled its rifles at Chavarres's heart.

"Viva Mexico!" said Chavarres, not more loudly, perhaps, than he might have said it over a glass of wine to friends in some cantina.

"Pew!"

GIVEN THE "GRACE SHOT."

There was a blaze of fire from the guns, and Villa's old general crumpled down and lay still. The captain advanced and sent a final bullet through his brains. It was a quick, painless death.

Chavarres met death much the same kind fashion. He, too, shouted "Viva Mexico!" Borrell said nothing. He went like a sheep to the slaughter. He did not open about his native land, but died silently, like a stupid peon.

The three men were buried in the afternoon in a lonely corner of the cemetery. The long evening shadows of the Casas Grandes peaks fall across their graves.

Heavy Guard Brings Back Six Mexicans Abandoned by Bandit in Flight South.

Columbus, N. M., April 11.—Six wounded Mexican members of Villa's band which attacked Columbus a month ago were brought to Columbus tonight. The men, the first prisoners arriving at the border since the raid, were brought here from El Valle in motor trucks and under a heavy guard. Officers accompanying the train said they had been captured in the town where they had been abandoned by Villa in his flight, while the American column reached there several weeks ago. None of the men is in a dangerous condition.

"Don" MacGregor Met Death in Mexico Because He "Stuck" to German Friend

LAST LETTER OF "DON" MAC GREGOR HINTS AT DANGER

ROBABLY the last letter that Donald MacGregor wrote before going to his death in Mexico was addressed to the editor of THE TRIBUNE. That he realized the dangers he was to encounter is shown by the phrase "I probably shall be out of touch with the world from now on for an indefinite period." The letter follows:

"Donald MacGregor is dead. His name was strange one among the eccentric circles that form in Halsford street bases in the vicinity of Hull house or no North Clark street, where one brings his own beer and occasionally contributes a quarter for the laging gas meter.

Killed Under Assumed Name.

Under the assumed name of David Bruce, which he often used in his writings, and an exile from the Colorado court of justice, which he believed he had good reason to fear, this good newspaper man, red blooded and without fear, was killed March 28 at Manaca, not many miles from here. No far as is known is the last American life that has been taken in the murderous career of Pancho Villa.

I knew MacGregor. Yesterday I talked with him. He was the last American who saw MacGregor alive and also, according to information, in the last American who saw the bandit Villa. He showed me his letters which were taken from the body of an American whom he knew under the name of David Bruce. When described to me the tall red face and unmistakable agitator's mouth of Don MacGregor.

Story of MacGregor Death.

"This American whom I know is David Bruce and a German mine superintendent in the Guerrero district by the name of Herman Blankenburg, who were staying at my hotel in Manaca on the night of March 27 when Villa, fleeing from Columbus, divided his forces into three commands and made simultaneous attacks on the towns of Guerrero, Manaca, and San Isidro.

There was a small Carrancista garrison in Manaca, whom the Villistas entered in the streets. MacGregor, Blankenburg, and I closed the doors and windows and lay down. After the fighting had subsided and a Carrancista soldier, who was hiding with us, told us that mean that Villa had no drum, because the Carrancistas had no drum.

Feared Anger of Villa.

"It was bed news for me. I had seen Villa personally two days before between Manaca and Guerrero and he had told me to get out of the country, saying that if he ever caught me in Mexico again he would kill me.

Blankenburg, MacGregor and I talked about escape. We knew that it was only a matter of hours before the Villistas would start to loot the hotel and find us. I was for getting away and as much as I could do to save time I am alive today.

"I tore a plank from the fence in back of the hotel and told them that I thought our only chance was in getting out of town in the darkness. I had a six shooter in the holster and carried an automatic in my hand. I believed I could make it.

"Blankenburg refused to go with me. He said, 'I am a German. I am not an American. Villa kills only Americans. I will stay in the hotel until morning and then I will go over to the hotel of Richard Simpkins in the town and stay with him.

"Then I sent a Mexican woman into town to learn what had happened to my

"I probably shall be out of touch with the world from now on for an indefinite period, although I have surrendered a renegade telegraph operator and have hopes of getting anything big out through him. In any case, the story of my trip should have points of high and hectic interest, if I know anything about this country.

Narrator Reaches Cudi Camp.

Locke, accompanied by a faithful mule, rode two days through the hills and reached the mining camp of Chihuahua, to which place the sixteen American miners were bound on Jan. 17 last, when they were taken from a train at Santa Isabel and murdered by Villistas under John J. Pershing.

After much hunting in the hills and numerous nights ride to evade the bands of Villistas, scattered after their disastrous encounter with American forces at Guerrero on March 29, Locke arrived at this place and reported to Gen. Pershing.

Among the letters taken from the body of MacGregor, was one from W. M. Lessler, written from Chicago; another from S. T. Hughes, formerly of the newspaper enterprise association in the Chicago area, but now located in Cleveland, and another from J. R. Walker of Denver, Colo.

All the letters indicated that MacGregor had been selling newspaper and magazine articles on the Mexican situation, while he remained in Mexico in the hope that the federal industrial relations commission which he had supplied with much data would come to his assistance in trouble, in Colorado.

Admired in Chicago.

I don't know exactly what MacGregor's Colorado trouble was, but I do know that his associates in Chicago admired him for the part he took, and even now I can see him sitting across the table from me at the Press Club in Chicago, when he first told me about it. Briefly, it is this:

He was suffering tuberculosis in the Colorado mountains when the miners struck reached its bloody climax in the battle of Ludlow. Against the orders of his physicians, MacGregor joined the striking miners and was the guiding genius of the armed resistance that followed. There was nothing to do for MacGregor, but to escape, and he possibly became a being drilled with a pistol from one of the so-called militiamen.

For this participation he sought safety in Mexico and remained here with the knowledge of John Lawson's cell at Trinidad as an example. That is why I believe this story will be sad news to his fellow exiles when they regather again in darkest Chicago.

HOWARD SINGS; IRMA'S FATHER A BROKEN MAN

"I Am Old and Bereft of Daughter; I Bear No Ill Will," Kilgallen Says.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Omaha, Neb., April 11.—An old man came to Omaha today to take his daughter home.
He was Martin H. Kilgallen. His daughter, Irma, lay on a marble slab, the victim of her own hand.
A few blocks away Joe Howard, her husband, looking with eyes of coquetry into those of Ethlyn Clark, danced and sang on the stage of a local theater.

"Good-by, my lady love, good-by.
Some day you will come back to me—
he trod to the cheers of an audience that pressed and fought and surged to see them."

"I Bear No Ill Will."
"Mike" Kilgallen grieved and tammed by the world he has met, stood dumb at the bier of Irma. He was crying. Finally he raised his head and spoke:

"I bear Howard no ill will.
I am an old man bereft of his daughter.

"Let me alone."
Those who watched him seemed to catch the vision of this old man as he gazed long down the lane of the years that had been.

The Span of a Life.
He saw his daughter as a little girl at his side when he was younger and poorer. There was Irma in her girlhood, with eyes that spoke the soul of an artist. There was Irma, the woman, blossomed into the hope of her father. He was Kilgallen, the wealthy man ready to give his heart's blood for her and more than generous with the riches his hands had made.

"I Am Old and Bereft."
The lane of the years closed, for up through the mist came Irma. And now she had been him and he had come to take her home.

I am an old man, bereft of his daughter," were practically his only words. Joe Howard met Mr. Kilgallen at the railway station. He stood between two policemen. He had asked for these policemen as a protection to himself.

The Meeting at the Station.
As the train came to a stop Howard and his bodyguard strode to the gates. Kilgallen strode through.

"I am Howard," said the song and dance actor.

The old man stopped, looked Howard squarely in the face for a moment, then he held out his hand and said:

"How do you do?"
With no more ado the men entered an automobile and were driven away. The automobile reached the Orpheum theater. "I can't go to the morgue," said Howard. "I must go on with my act."

Joe Goes Back to Stage.
Howard parted from Mr. Kilgallen and hurried "back stage" and into his dressing room. He was drawing near the matinee. Kilgallen, in the moment the automobile had left the theater, looked wonderingly for a moment at the crowd looking at lithographs of Howard and Ethlyn Clark in fond attitudes. He caught a glance of the lithographs and waved the chauffeur to drive on.

At the morgue a photographer had his machine set for a snapshot. Kilgallen brushed it aside with a light sweep of his hand. The force of this sent the camera to the sidewalk, where it crashed.

"I Must Go on with My Act."
Kilgallen entered the morgue and went at once to the side of his daughter.

Howard was putting on the finishing touches of his makeup.

"I find," said he, "that I will not be able to go to Chicago with the body of my dear wife, nor even attend the funeral. I am under contract and I must go on with my act."

That Rose of Pearl.
He reached to his dressing table and picked up a necklace. It was Irma's $25,000 rope of pearls that Howard says left to him. He claims Mrs. Landberg, in whose room Irma ended her life, told him Irma wanted him to have it. He held the chaste bauble in his hand.

HER SUICIDE BREAKS UP "DADDY"

that Mr. Kilgallen was going to take his daughter's body home with him. At the stage he met Howard and they awaited their turn.

On the front of the theater was packed to the door. The marriage of Irma to De Beaufort, her divorce, her wealthy father Kilgallen, her travels abroad, her marriage to Howard and her astounding suicide had been a "publicity stunt" that was hard to beat. Those who were turned away contented an eager palate on the screaming lithographs of Howard and Miss Clark. Women were profuse in their judgments.

What the Women Think.
"He says he can't go to the funeral because he owes a debt to the public in his acting," said one. "Well, it may be art, but art never brought a crowd like this."

Inside the orchestra crashed out—

"Good-by, my lady love—"

And Howard and Clark tripped gaily before the footlights in a storm of applause. Howard had taken a Christian treatment a half hour before the performance began. He was in high spirits. He cracked his jokes, played the piano, danced, and sang with keen abandon. He came down to the footlights.

"He's going to talk about his wife," some one whispered.

Here's What He Sings.

But he didn't. He sang:

I wonder who's kissing her now,
I wonder who's teaching her how,
I wonder who's looking into her eyes,
Looking wise, telling lies;
I wonder who's buying her wine
For lips that I used to call mine,
I wonder who's telling him of me—
I wonder who's kissing her now.

An the crowd went mad, unthinking that some one whispered.

"Mike" Kilgallen, the broken father.

Father Demands Inquest.

Kilgallen sought out the coroner and was told there would be no inquest. He looked straight into the coroner's eyes and said there would be. And there will be too. Kilgallen will not be there. He made his arrangements alone.

The body of Irma was placed in its casket and sent to the railway station, where it was guarded by the father. He spoke to none. He wanted to be alone. When an evening train drew out for Chicago it carried Kilgallen and the daughter he was taking care of.

The inquest will be tomorrow and all those concerned will be questioned.

LORIMER TO GO ON STAND.

Character Witnesses First Will Testify Regarding the Former Banker.

Character witnesses for William Lorimer are expected to take the stand in the trial of the former banker today.

Among them is Sheriff John Traeger. L. B. Bauchus, formerly vice president of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, will be the first witness this morning. He will be cross examined by Assistant State's Attorney William H. Holley. Mr. Lorimer himself is expected to begin his testimony late tomorrow afternoon or Friday morning.

SAYS DIAZ HAS 23,000 MEN, BUT IS FRIEND OF THE U. S.

W. E. D. Stokes, Millionaire New Yorker, Says He Is Agent of Mexican and Knows Attitude.

Lexington, Ky., April 11.—[Special.]

Felix Diaz is in Mexico at his call, but he is entirely friendly to the United States," declared W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire owner of the Ansonia hotel in New York. "I know because I am a representative of Diaz in this country."

Diaz made this rather remarkable declaration in an interview. He went on:

"Diaz has proved that he is a friend to this country. When he came to this country he stopped for a time at my hotel in New York. Diaz was there, too. Huerta had $13,000,000 and he offered Diaz $2,000,000 of it to go into Mexico and start a revolt. This Diaz would not do, because he knew it would hit this country. Another thing: Diaz was offered an immense sum of money, unlimited arms, and equipment and other inducements by Germany if he would foment a revolution in Mexico. This also he declined."

Diaz was greatly agitated when he learned of today's developments in the Diaz situation through dispatches from El Paso. He received a telegram, he said, from New York demanding his return there at once, and said it was in connection with the latest Diaz developments.

"I won't talk about that now, though," he declared. Stokes said he had Huerta shadowed in New York by a detective, and that he learned many things about how he became interested in Diaz's affairs, but declared he had kept in close touch with the United States secretary of state all the time.

Diaz May Fight Carranza.

San Antonio, Tex., April 11.—[Special.] Gen. Felix Diaz, nephew of the old dictator of Mexico, is now at Tapachula, in the state of Chiapas, at the head of a large body of troops, prepared to march against the forces of the Carranza government.

Here's where you get off when you don't dictate to the Dictaphone

You throw away real money every day you stick to shorthand.

Hard earned dollars that don't get you a single thing except delays, annoyance and inconvenience. And questionable efficiency in letter writing. You pay twice for every letter—once for having it written in shorthand and once on the typewriter. The sort of glaring waste you would not countenance for a minute in any other department.

It is so obviously good business sense to dictate to the Dictaphone and save at least a third on every letter. Pay for having your letters written once on the typewriter. Have them written better and more of them. And enjoy a personal convenience in the dictation of correspondence you never knew existed.

Dictate to the Dictaphone and dictate when and how you want—as much or as little as you feel like. Your stenographer will spend her time producing finished typewriting. She will work free from the eye and nerve strain that go with shorthand.

No matter from what angle you look at it—saving money or increasing efficiency, you should dictate to the Dictaphone. Your business is just the same as any other business where the Dictaphone is concerned. Proof? Plenty. Say the word and it is yours to digest.

"Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

It is now evident that the chances of "getting Villa, dead or alive," are very slim. That remarkable individual seems to be disappearing like the Cheshire cat and we shall presently have nothing of him but his grin of triumph.

The situation is humiliating—if after three years of bungling we have any capacity for shame left. But it is full of instruction for the public if not for the administration, which seems beyond, and is doubtless above, the teaching of repeated experience.

So far as the capture of the person of Villa is concerned, it ought not to mean much to this great republic. It certainly does not add to our self-respect to find the machinery of a nation of 100,000,000 furiously bent upon the destruction of one outlaw, even though he flaunted us successfully across our border, and escaped with the blood of unfeeling Americans on his hands.

It is true his elimination from the Mexican situation would be helpful. His punishment, and by American agency, is important for its moral effect. His escape would fix even more widely and deeply the conviction of the Mexican people that the United States is without strength to defend its citizens, their rights, or persons, or even to oppose the will of Mexicans when exerted on our soil. Three years of incredible vacillation, of incredible concessions, of futile interference alternating with unexplainable inaction, have produced in the Mexican mind, as events are showing day by day, a deep and dangerous contempt for our government and our people.

The chapter of our Mexican relations beginning with the raid on Columbus necessarily has intensified this sentiment because it has shown that we were both unready and unwilling to act swiftly and efficiently even against a red handed marauder with half a regiment of rough riders at his back. Villa struck on the night of March 8. It was nearly a week before pursuit actually began. Part of that delay, say three days, was necessitated by the fact that, in spite of three years of Mexican chaos and perpetual threat across our border, in spite of the fact that our international responsibility has been at all times imperative, though we were shirking it, in spite of the fact that forced intervention was at all times probable, the government has stubbornly refused to put enough troops in the field to protect the border as it should be protected or to prepare fully for immediate action in case of just such an offense as Villa finally committed.

But also the delay was prolonged several days by a foolish and pusillanimous dithering with the Mexican de facto government.

This situation should be fully realized by the American public. Carranza owes the better part of what prestige he has to the recognition of our government. Though pompously pretending to control Mexico, his de facto government had been unable to suppress the Villistas, had been unable or unwilling to protect American citizens from outrage and assassination, had been unable or unwilling to prevent the violation of our territory and the murder of Americans on their own soil. To enforce these rights and provide this defense was the duty of the de facto government and in the case of its non-performance it became our duty and our right. Yet while Villa and his band were putting leagues between them and our paralyzed pursuit, our state department was going through a diplomatic hocus-pocus to condone an official insolence and evasion which its own past irresolution and folly had cultivated.

Although we had every right to move at once and with all necessary vigor to take Villa and put northern Mexico in a condition to respect the lives and rights of our citizens, we were petitioning for permission to act, while Carranza and his officials, treating us like offenders, were yielding as little as they dared and doing what they could to make our performance of their duty as costly, as dangerous, and as ineffective as possible.

This preposterous palaver sacrificed several days, but it did not procure the use of the Mexican railroads to make up for the delay. On the contrary, our expedition was compelled to begin a long chase, attended by great hardship, with horse and foot and motor truck over desert and mountain pass, while a railroad paralleled its advance. If used at once by our expedition this road would have brought the pursuit forward days and given it a fair chance to overtake or to intercept Villa. Instead we submitted to an insolent refusal to make our task easier and more certain, accepted virtually the implication that we had no rights in Mexico which Mexicans are bound to respect, and as a result we now find our expedition more than 300 miles in the hostile Mexican interior with a rapidly declining hope of accomplishing our principal object.

Not only did Carranza refuse us this help, but his troops have failed to assist in intercepting Villa as he promised they would. Senator Fall has just described the retreat of Villa unmolested past Carrancista garrisons. Probably this is not Carranza's fault, but it would seem to be his interest to put Villa out of his way if possible. But if it is not his fault it is his weakness, and that is a fact which should be faced by our government, if it has any intention of correcting our Mexican relations.

The fate of Villa is a minor concern, compared to the urgent need of placing our Mexican policy on a basis of common sense, common safety, and mutual respect. The day of our reckoning is drawing inevitably nearer. The perverted and fallacious humanitarianism, the irresolution and inconsistency, the stubborn refusal to consider the political, economic, and ethnic facts of the Mexican problem which have made of the Wilson-Bryan Mexican policy the most complete fiasco in the history of our international relations must be replaced by something more realistic, forethoughted, and effectual.

Either we shall bring peace and civilized order to Mexico or another nation or nations will. Either we shall fulfill the trusteeship which Europe has recognized for the time being, or we shall find ourselves compelled to stand aside and fight for a trust we have not known how to keep.

The Wilson-Bryan policy has made our task much more delicate and difficult than it need have been; perhaps much more costly, too. But it is time to face it. Its failure candidly and to replace it by a practical policy founded not on doctrine, but on facts and directed with consistency, common sense, and persistent energy until our task is complete.

There is but one way to prevent the grave international peril toward which the Wilson-Bryan policy has been conducting us and to bring to an end the miseries which that policy has permitted to accumulate upon the heads of the Mexican people. That way is by energetic intervention and the establishment of a protectorate.

THE ILLINOIS WATERWAY PETITION.

The new secretary of war, Newton D. Baker, has before him the request of Gov. Dunne for a rehearing, on the application of the state for a permit to undertake the waterway construction provided for in the act of 1915 appropriating $5,000,000 to make a navigable course between Lockport and Utica.

It is so reasonable that a rehearing should be granted that we are inclined to believe that it will be given in the natural course. The state in making its original application became the victim of events and of bureaucratic arbitrariness. The denial of the application was recommended by the engineer in chief of the department, Gen. Kingman, on legal, not engineering grounds. The judge advocate of the department reported favorably on the legal issues and all the engineers except Gen. Kingman upon the engineering questions. The engineer in chief considered legal.

The report did not go to Mr. Garrison. He had resigned before it was submitted. Gen. Scott, secretary ad interim, accepted Gen. Kingman's recommendation and the permit was denied. Gen. W. M. Black has taken his place, and Secretary Baker is in office.

Considering all the circumstances of the denial of the permit, the petition for a rehearing ought only to be presented to be granted. Illinois plans an internal improvement, the value of which will be recognized all through the Mississippi valley. It is more national in character than state. Money is to be provided by the sale of state bonds and a link connecting intersecting waterways is to be supplied by Irving Berlin!

APRIL IN WAR TIME.

[Richard Le Gallienne to Harper's Weekly.]

O DANCE not into being the old way

This year, sweet April, and, if thou must sing,

Sing lower than the wont, lest sorrow bear—

For sharper than a sword to her is spring;

Now, with light-hearted play

Of flowers and showers,

Be jocund then—for to the dead, this year,

They flowers belong.

Ye all the youth of all the world here lies,

Out off and east away in its white bloom

And golden song.

It is no world, this year, for song or rose—

O dancing April, this is autumn's year;

Then art too young and gay for hearts like ours,

For as the only purpose of thy flowers

To deck Love's bier;

Ah! sing thy songs to them

That sleep, for requiem—

We dare not hear; this year,

We do not hear.

EFFICIENCY.

[From the Granbrook, R. G. Herald.]

Jim Bates, of Vancouver, was in with the finest lop of sheep ever seen with the naked eyeball, if you take Jim's word for it. He is one of the best salesmen on the road, and one very hot dominos day we happened to be visiting him at the time he sold a pair of snowshoes to a swimming party down at Lake Rock, and he got the money.

It is these considerations as well as those of efficiency which have led to the growing belief in universal compulsory service.

Editorial of the Day.

(From the Boston Post.)

New York may not exhibit a very strong inclination to preserve her historical relics, such few as she has, but one variety of relic she clings to with a pertinacity that amuses the visitor from any wild and woolly state you may mention. That relic is the horse car.

The system depends practically, though not legally, on the whim of employers. It may be that under pressure of public opinion they will encourage their men to enlist. But it is certain that when the obvious and immediate necessity for some sort of training is less in the public mind they will go back to their own way.

Of course, there is a case for the employers. It is a case of penalizing patriotism again and putting a premium on selfishness. Those who have a sense of the duty of citizens suffer in competition with those who have not.

It is these considerations as well as those of efficiency which have led to the growing belief in universal compulsory service.

ANOTHER ANGRY FURS.

SHOUT! time is now in New York died from anthrax. The cases in this case were on the neck and end the girl had recently worn a new fur collar. Since it was not possible to find any other way in which the girl could have contracted the fur collar carried anthrax to the girl.

The health authorities investigated the case as well as they could. They came to the conclusion that the fur collar was not the cause of the infection, but the girl had recently cleaned the collar and the anthrax had been washed out. Furthermore, they found that there was no record in medical literature of a case of anthrax in workers in fur.

"Will you suggest a way to prevent or cure the same child from stammering?"

REPLY.

1. Many children cure themselves of bed wetting in a month.

2. Teach him to speak slowly, deliberately, and distinctly. Have him recite stories and little poems, saying each word slowly and distinctly. Reward him for his success.

3. Do not permit any one to mimic him. Do not punish, scold, or ridicule him. Do not give him any time to ridicule him or even notice his defect. Encourage him to speak deliberately and plainly and then do all you can to give him assurance.

BRUNNELL (Vol. II, Defense of Speech) says: "If mothers would adopt these simple measures we could get rid of bed wetting in little more of stammering."

My baby seems perfectly well, yet it is impossible for me to get him to sleep, sound sleep before 8 or 4 o'clock in the morning. Previous to this time I am up every hour with him. Some of my friends have advised me to let him cry a couple of nights; others tell me I am a bad parent.

What is your opinion?"

REPLY.

1. Generally speaking, no. There are some exceptions.

2. None.

3. If you will let him cry as much as he wants to you will break him of his restlessness at night. Put him to bed and leave him.

HOUSE PASSES A $39,000,000 PORK MEASURE

Solid Democratic South Puts Over Harbors Bill by Vote of 200 to 133.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.]—Southern Democrats, voting solidly in favor of pork, aided and abetted by a few northern Democrats and even fewer Republicans, jammed the $39,000,000 river and harbor pork barrel bill through the house today.

The vote on the measure was 200 to 133. On a motion to recommit, providing that a lump sum of $30,000,000 should be appropriated to be allotted by the army engineers, the foes of pork mustered 140 votes, the largest number in the history of the house, while the advocates of the grab measure obtained 200.

North Against Pork.

The vote on the motion to recommit showed that the sentiment of the north is overwhelmingly against pork barrel appropriations. Sixteen northern members who voted to cut down the appropriations voted in favor of the final passage of the measure to obtain for their districts what they regarded as much needed improvements.

In the mid-west delegations to Congress, surprising gains were made in the fight on pork.

Out of seventy-five congressmen in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin only fourteen favored the pork barrel measure. Fifty-two congressmen voted against it and nine were absent.

Six Illinoisans for It.

Six of the fourteen favoring pork were from Illinois. The vote in the central west was as follows:

Limbs Bids Near Cost.

Just before the bill came to a vote Representative Good of Iowa was successful in obtaining an amendment providing that dredging firms should not be awarded contracts for port and harbor work where their bids are more than 20 per cent greater than the bid to the government for doing the work.

One of the many charges preferred against the bill was that it was drawn in favor of dredging concerns. During the debate Representative Foy of Wisconsin brought out that on the Norfolk-Beaufort canal, one of the most indefensible projects in the entire measure, the dredging bill paid nearly double the amount of the government's estimates. It is estimated that the Good amendment will result in a saving of at least $3,000,000 on the projects contained in the bill.

Fight in Senate.

The large vote against the bill today indicates that a determined fight will be made on it in the senate. Senators Oberman and Lewis of Illinois, Kenyon of Iowa, Huston of Wisconsin, Galling of New Hampshire, and one or two others have already served notice they will insist upon a material reduction in the measure or they will attempt to prevent its passage.

HONOR AT LAST FOR ARTIST LONG KEPT IN ASYLUM

I. A. Blakelock, Genius Ignored for 17 Years, Returns to New York Famous.

New York, April 11.—[Special.]—A thin, gray, little man with moist eyes and a radiant face looked long and intently this afternoon from the Woolworth tower. Figuratively as well as literally the city lay at his feet—the city that has ignored his genius and starved him and neglected him seventeen years in asylums; and the city that, awakened, has thrown open her arms to him with honor such as no artist before him has lived to receive.

Suspected wonderment, triumphant joy were in the voice and attitude of Ralph Albert Blakelock as he stood there at the close of his first day of regeneration.

Blakelock, who went away with scarcely a belongings, came back an honored member of the National Academy of Design.

Sheds Tears of Joy.

"I am afraid you are shedding tears because you have to return to the hospital for a little while longer," said one of Blakelock's friends, watching intently the effect of every incident.

"No, these are not tears of regret," he replied. "They are tears of joy for all that this day has brought to me."

The artist's coming from the Middlesex state hospital was unannounced for fear it would attract a crowd of the curious and prove upsetting. It was understood in order that Blakelock might view his assembled masterpieces in the Redpath galleries where they are being shown (admission $1) for the benefit of the fund that is to provide a home and comfort for him in natural environments.

Displays Excellent Memory. Throughout the day of wonderful experiences Blakelock preserved a poise creditable to a sane man. He was as tractable as a child and as interested as one. He displayed a memory for friends and places and a keen appreciation of pictures and their makers that astonished both professionals and laymen.

"It is absurd," Blakelock said, "to say that man is mad. In the sense that the world regards insanity."

Claims Dr. Maurice C. Ashley, superintendent of the Middletown hospital, after he had observed Blakelock for an hour and a half at the Reinhardt galleries.

"It is absurd," Blakelock is not normal, but to say that he should be confined in an institution for his own good or for the good of society is worse than useless, it is brutal."

Shows His First Auto Ride.

Today's experiences apparently have been Blakelock's immeasurable good. They have stimulated appreciation, but they have verified all that I have said, and more, as to the promise of his "coming back" if funds are provided for his care."

Among other novel experiences Blakelock today rode for the first time in an automobile.

AGAINST CHICAGO MAN.

Elizabeth Siran of Milwaukee Is Awarded Verdict in Charge Against Fred V. Schroeder.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 11.—A jury in the circuit court late today awarded a verdict of $15,000 to Elizabeth Siran in her suit against Fred V. Schroeder, 222 North Kedzie boulevard, Chicago, for $8,000 for alleged breach of promise.

Miss Siran, a maid employed in Schroeder's home in 1913, testified that Schroeder had promised to marry her.

A year ago Miss Siran brought suit in civil court here against Schroeder for the support of her child and she was granted $15 a month.

Schroeder did not appear in court to contest the suit.

CANDY "CARGO" FOR MEXICO.

Young Women of America Respond to Request of Soldiers Across the Border.

Columbus, N. M., April 11.—Publication reports that American soldiers in the Mexican field have asked for consignment of candy have brought responses from young women in almost every section of the United States.

Every mail and almost every express train arriving in Columbus brings packages of candy addressed to the "Soldiers across front."

Two pounds of candy was received recently from a club of young women in Philadelphia, this being the largest single package.

Says Woman's Beauty Depends Upon Health

Health and Vigor Necessitate Regulation of Organs of Elimination.

With foods and face creams and powders we cannot make a woman beautiful, because beauty lies deeper than that—it lies in health, and the cause of sickness lies in the action of the bowels.

The headache, the lameness, the swollen glands, the listlessness, the shallow breathing, the listless eyes are usually due to constipation. An ideal remedy for constipation is a small quantity of the delicate organisms found in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint, a small laxative compound, pleasant to the taste and free from opiate and narcotic drugs of any description. Mrs. Gertrude Jordan, 200 North Liberty Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

"It is simply fine; I have been able to find anything to compare with it." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint is sold in all drugstores. It is also obtainable free of charge by writing to Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 454 Washington Street, Monticello, Ill.—Advertisement.

DUAL SHOOTING FATHER'S FIRST WEDDING NEWS

Crippled Cigarmaker Told Son May Die After Wounding Wife in East.

The phone rang in the saloon of Notar Cesar at 2401 West Lake street last night. The message was for Herman G. Wolter, an aged cigarmaker, crippled with rheumatism, who manages to make a bare living, his trade in a small room above the saloon. Friends carried the old man over the steps to the phone. This was the son of the man who died.

"Your son, Louis H. Wolter, shot his wife, Mrs. Cora Mashew Wolter, and then fired three bullets into his head in Bridgeport, Conn."

"I didn't even know he was married again," said Wolter. "It was last September, when his boy died, that I last heard from him. He was in New York then working as an investigator, and said he was a widower. He never came. His first wife obtained a divorce from him several years ago."

The double shooting was the third tragic chapter in the life of Cora Mashew, said to have been a wealthy southern beauty. She had been married twice before she met Wolter. She went to Bridgeport from Palm Beach, Fla., and accumulated large property holdings.

Frank A. Amato, her second husband, a salaman, committed suicide two years ago by inhaling gas. It was learned Wolter and his wife quarreled a week ago over attentions which she is alleged to have paid a New Haven lawyer.

Both men are crippled, whereupon Mrs. Spreen said Wolter probably would die. His wife has a chance of recovery.

"JOHNNY" POE'S LETTER SENT TO PRINCETON MEN.

They Would Honor Football Hero, Who Always "Went Through" with New Athletic Field.

And now, in the stately language of the rancher and miner, I looks towards you all, and also bows; I hope I catches your eye. While water runs and grass grows. J. P. Poe.

Every Princeton graduate in the world is shortly will be in possession of a copy of the last letter, the closing paragraph of which is quoted above, written by "Johnny" Poe, Princeton football idol, who died "somewhere in France," a member of company A, Third platoon, First Black Watch.

With the aid of the friends of the deceased, the alumnus are contributing to a fund for the construction of a spangled athletic field, to be called "Poe Field," as a memorial to the man who always went through.

One of the committees in charge of the memorial is Arthur L. ("Beef") Wheeler, whom "Johnny" Poe showed across the line for the winning touchdown in the bloody game with Yale in 1895.

Princeton may boast that the Black Watch opened its ranks to "Johnny" Poe, an American, and that he was "going through" when he died.

WOMAN DROPS FRAUD CHARGE AGAINST WALKER

Mrs. Spreen Pays Attorney $1,000 in Settlement of Fee Claim.

Charges of fraud preferred against Attorney Henry M. Walker by Mrs. Lisette M. Spreen were dropped yesterday. Mrs. Spreen is not only the plaintiff in an action for recovery of his claim but also asserted to a court decision which found no fraud, but instead that Mr. Walker had invested his time and money in Mrs. Spreen's mining venture.

The difficulty arose last fall when Mr. Walker was engaged as legal counsel by Mrs. Spreen. According to her complaint, Mr. Walker defrauded her of a one-fifth interest in her $2,500,000 mining corporation.

"Mrs. Spreen did have a mining claim," said Mr. Walker. "At first she wanted me to buy a one-fifth interest, but I refused. But she was in danger of losing her claim, so I interceded for her behalf and claimed her right to her."

"In doing this I used $200 of my own money. This was outside of the time I had spent or any charges for my legal services. After clearing her property I aided her in forming a corporation and took one-fifth of the stock as my fee. Then she accused me of defrauding her.

"I offered to settle by permitting her to pay me back my $200 and $100 for my services. She refused this and brought suit. I declined at that time to discuss the matter, even though her suit brought me much undesirable notice."

"When the case was called for trial I offered in court to settle for $1,000—in other words, forfeit half my fee due for legal services. The court accepted this and a decision would be rendered on April 20. But today I was handed a draft for $1,000 from Mrs. Spreen. She didn't even wait for the court's decision, but admitted the justice of my claim."

Secretary Lansing Tells Cabinet of Work on Carranza Protocol—Wilson Pleased with Results.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—[Special.]

—Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army and acting secretary of war in the absence of Secretary Baker, gave a detailed account of the work of the expeditionary forces in Mexico today when he appeared at a meeting of the cabinet. He expressed satisfaction with the work of the troops and this was echoed by the cabinet.

The work on the protocol, which the administration looks on apparently as of equal importance with the invasion, was explained by Secretary of State Lansing, who admitted inability to tell when the protocol would be completed. He stated that Carranza has not asked for a limitation of the extent of operations of the American troops.

He also reported the telegrams from the state department's representatives in Mexico, and, on the strength of these, the president expressed his satisfaction with the brand of cooperation which Carranza is furnishing in the running down of Villa.

A Sale of 3,000 Yards of Imported Cretonnes At 25c the Yard

Indeed, this announces a most fortunate and timely purchase.

Here are assortments of attractive cretonnes—3,000 yards at little more than maker's cost.

And included are so many color combinations and designs, from those very quiet to those strikingly large and high-colored, that cretonnes for almost any purpose may be selected from these assortments at this little price.

Almost all patterns come in full piece lengths, from 25 to 50 yards—suitable and enough for the complete furnishing of a room—for the slip-covering of the furniture—in fact, for almost every purpose cretonnes are now used, even including sports apparel.

In conjunction with this sale we also offer nearly 1,500 yards of cretonnes taken from our regular stocks in lengths of 10 to 50 yards, in most cases representing patterns which are out of print and, therefore, not advantageous for us to carry longer.

Both assortments featured at this one price, while the quantity lasts, 25c yard.

REJUVENATED CUBS TACKLE REDS IN OPENER TODAY

TEAM TO PROVE SURPRISE, SAYS LEADER TINKER

Hendrix or McConnell to Be on Slab—Beat the Colonels in Final.

Games Today.

Chicago at Cincinnati.
Pittsburgh at St. Louis.
Boston at Brooklyn.
New York at Philadelphia.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Cincinnati, O., April 11.—[Special.] Manager Joe Tinker, heading the consolidated forces of Cubs and Whales, will start the season here tomorrow, opposing the team he led for a single season. When Tinker relieved himself of the management of the Reds in 1913 he had as much use for Harry Herrmann and other Cincinnati matinee boys as Ed had for his own players. Allowing him to do little for power the Reds as he was two years ago, nevertheless victory in the opener will be decidedly pleasing.

Competing their exhibition schedule at Louisville, the athletes entrained early this evening and reached here before 40 o'clock. No time was wasted for conservation, as Tinker insisted that every athlete be in his room by 10:30 o'clock. There wasn't any objection, for all the players were glad that the real season was over. They were carrying umbrellas here, where the Cubs went to bed. A rain about the density of a Scotch mist was falling, but the weather man predicts probable sunshine tomorrow.

Schulte May Play Left.

Tinker still is a bit undecided about his lineup, as well as the pitcher for the opening combat. Only one place, however, in the field was doubtful, that being the left field job. Leslie Mann, who has been on the spot since the Regulars left Tampa, may be replaced tomorrow by the manager of the School of the season, but that possible switch is that Tinker respects Manager Hersey to send Fred Tolson to the mound. Toney is a right-handed hurler with a swell curve ball, and the Cub boss thinks Schulte may be more likely to connect than will Mann.

Should Hersey send a southpaw to the slab there is little doubt that Mann will be the left field job.

Regarding the pitcher on the Cub side, for the opening game it seemed tonight that either Claude Hendrix or George McConnell will be the man chosen. There still is a possibility of big Jim Vaughn being selected. It all depends on the condition of the weather and the showing of the three men as they warm up before battle.

Hendrix or McConnell.

Should it be a damp day there is no chance of Hendrix being picked, as he has been a bust in pinching. Authors on the slab will be the ball. He's to be wet. McConnell also throws the spitball, but has a curve ball as well. If there is water on the field or a damp atmosphere big Vaughn is the most likely candidate.

Tinker has opened with Hendrix for two years, he has conducted the Chicago Pats, and both times has been successful. Consequently, he has a bit of confidence which favors the choice of Claude Hendrix, just as Frank Chance formerly had a superstition that the opening game belonged to Orville Overall. It looks as if Manager Joe can make no mistake in picking Hendrix this spring, providing the day is suitable, because the big club star is ready for a great battle.

It was announced positively that Eddie McMillian will sit at the piano for the second half. Cy Williams, who was permitted to rest today because of his slightly bruised foot, will be in center field unless something injurious develops before the game. Dutch Zwilling will play the part of pinch hitter and utility player at the start.

Expect Capacity Crowd.

The Cincinnati park can seat close to 22,000 persons, and there is little doubt but that all seats will be filled and a horde of fans on the field besides. All the reserved seats have been sold for tomorrow. The only thing that can prevent a crowd of better than 25,000 is rainy weather. Two years ago the Cubs played the first game in Reville in a drizzling rain and 18,000 fans sat and looked on. A squad of 100, led by President Weighman, will be down from Chicago on a special train. There would have been 200, according to the report, but 100 seem to be the limit of the capacity of what the visitors are from Chicago, and are loyal adherents of the Cubs.

Brass Band to Greet Them.

Plans have been made for a brass band to meet the Chicago delegation at the railroad station this morning and blare the trail to their hotel. It is expected the band in Reville will be increased by the joint efforts of the bands of the Cub and Redland clubs from Richmond, Ind., where Harry Weighman condescended to peek at his first unsophisticated peek at an unsuspecting world, and if possible the two visiting throngs will join voices in a pean of the prowess of a pean.

Advice from Redland last night indicated the opening would be more completely attended than any previous opening of Cincinnati's new stadium, and that the visitors from Chicago and the local stockholders who were included in the party, expect to remain until the end of the series.

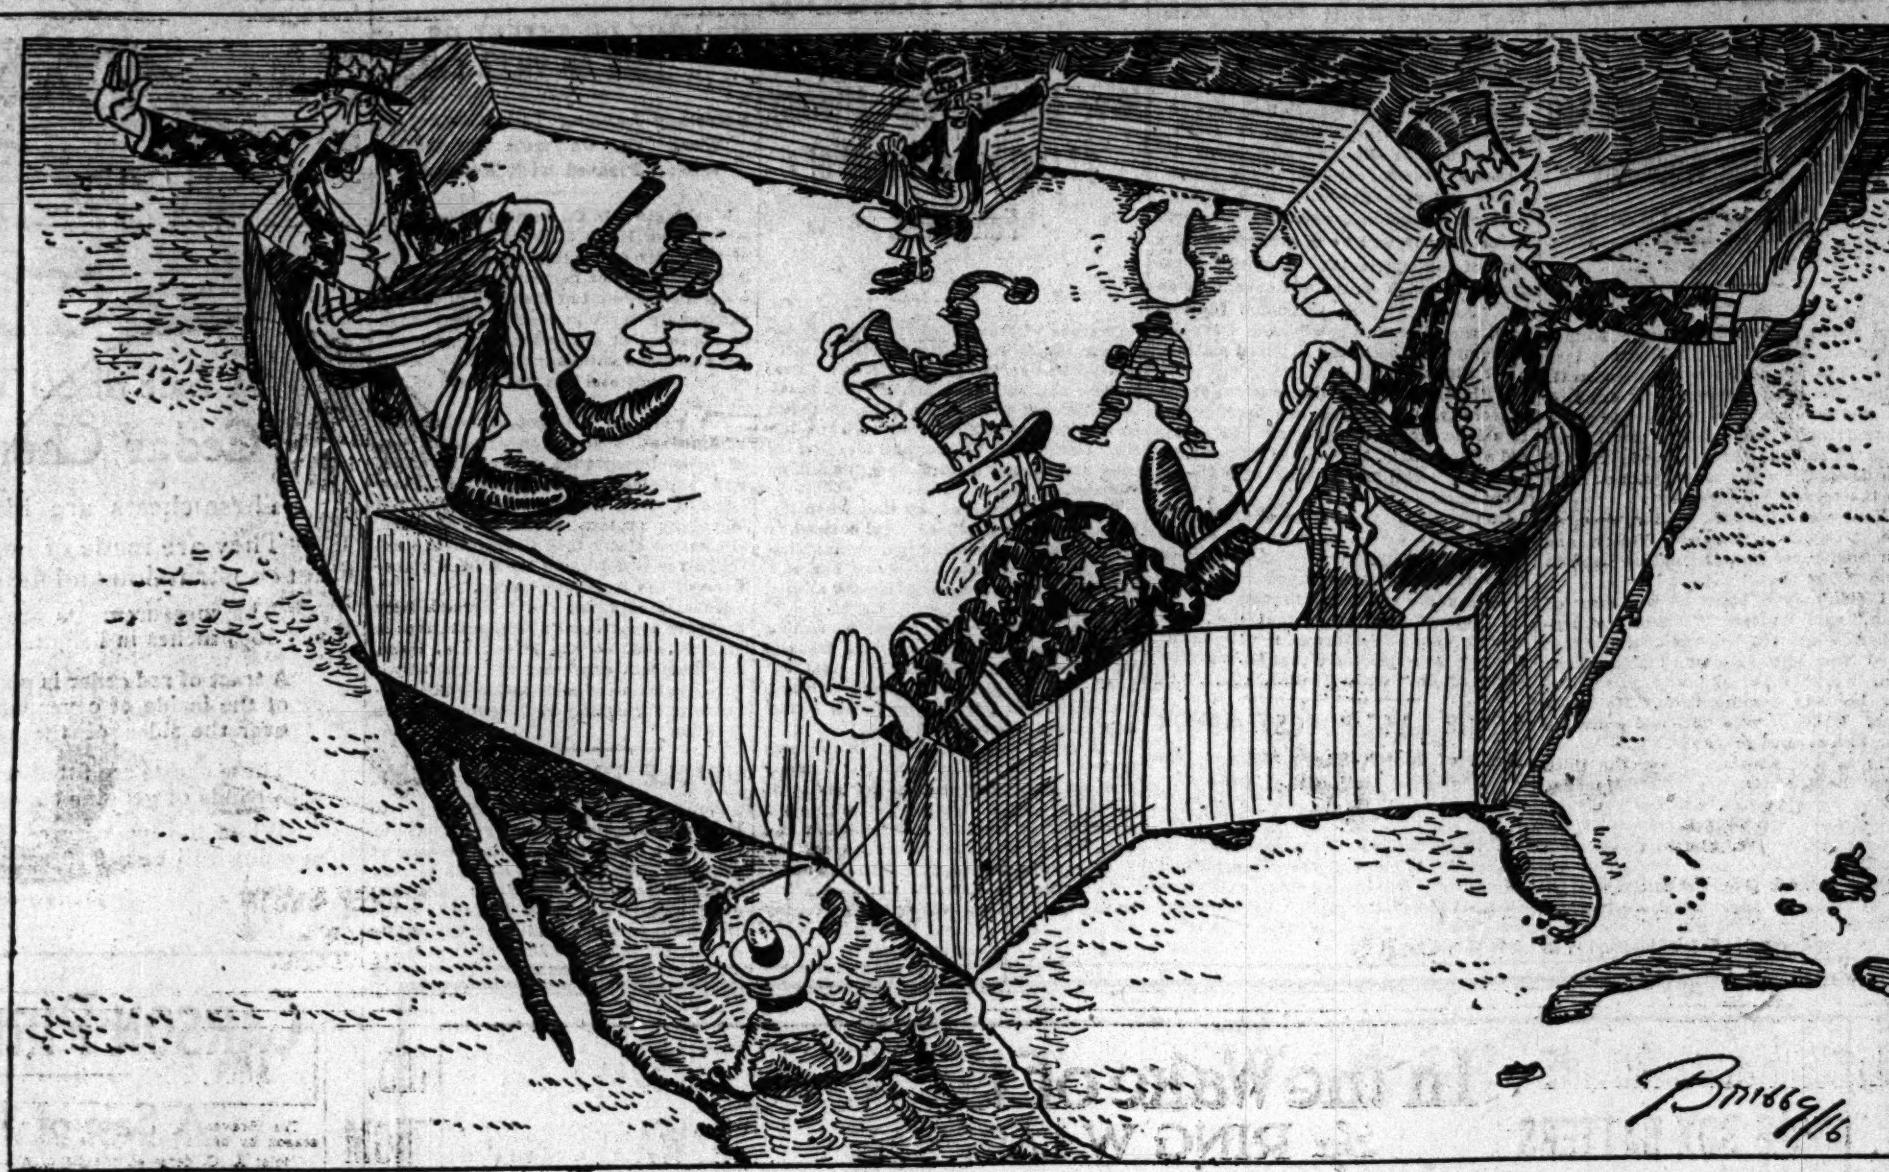

Weighman to See Series.

Most of the local roosters will return tomorrow night, but President Weighman and several of the Cub stockholders who were included in the party, expect to remain until the end of the series.

Minor Umpires to Meet Tonight.

The National Association of Minor League Umpires, composed of the arbiters in a dozen different states, will hold its final meeting to-night at the Hotel New Yorker. The umpires are invited to attend, as the occasion will be the last this year before the men assume their duties.

CUB ROOTERS LEAVE FOR "CINCY" OPENER

Brimful of confidence and other well-known brands of courage, nearly 100 Cub rooters huddled themselves aboard a special train which left the Polk street station north of downtown midnight last night bound for Cincinnati, the purpose was to inspire, by their presence in Reville, a crowd of better than 25,000 in rainy weather. Two years ago the Cubs played the first game in Reville in a drizzling rain and 18,000 fans sat and looked on. A squad of 100, led by President Weighman, will be down from Chicago on a special train. There would have been 200, according to the report, but 100 seem to be the limit of the capacity of what the visitors are from Chicago, and are loyal adherents of the Cubs.

BY OTTO A. ENGEL.

Wilson Avenue, Y. M. C. A. Exmoors eliminated the Hamlin Triangles, 26 to 23, in the opening game of the heavyweight schedule for the Amateur Athletic federation basketball championship at Seward park gymnasium. A half time the teams were tied at 12 all. Exmoors featured with eleven points. In the other games at Seward Hebrew, intermediate interteam was won by the Central, 20 to 19, after trailing, 8 to 7, at intermediate and the Sherman Parkers defeated the Palmer Parkers, 18 to 15.

At the Hebrew Institute gymnasium Seward Park won from Hyde Park High school 15 to 14, after being a forlorn hope at half time, which showed the high schoolers in front, 12 to 2. Cornells of Armour square bumped the South Chicagoans, 23 to 9, and Armour mission stopped Morton High school, 19 to 7.

EGLINGTON LOWERS OWN SKATE RECORD IN MILE TITLE RACE

A. R. Eglington, holder of several world roller records, broke one of his own last night when he finished the one mile national championship contest at the Riverview rink in 1:11.85. The former mark by the British star was 1:12. Nearly 4,000 persons crowded the rink.

The body of Bob Burman, who met death at Corona Saturday, was shipped from the Pacific coast on the Los Angeles limited yesterday morning. It will arrive in Chicago at 11:30 Friday morning en route to Michigan for burial.

Philip Freiler, treasurer of the Elgin Road Racing association, was buried yesterday. He was identified with the Watch city classics since their inception in 1910 and held a large block of stock in the promoting organization. His death marks the passing of a "grand old man" from the racing game. He was a true sportsman, who added greatly in putting the Elgin meet at a high level.

At the Hebrew Institute gymnasium Seward Park won from Hyde Park High school 15 to 14, after being a forlorn hope at half time, which showed the high schoolers in front, 12 to 2. Cornells of Armour square bumped the South Chicagoans, 23 to 9, and Armour mission stopped Morton High school, 19 to 7.

Before starting the eastward exodus to participate in the Chicago race on May 18, the racers officials now on the Pacific coast will compete in three more events in California.

The closing spring race at the Los Angeles speedway, a 150 mile free-for-all, will be run Sunday. The following Sunday, April 23, the dirt track at Bakersfield.

BEALL GETS LOW TROPHY IN PINHEURST GOOF MEET.

Pinheurst, N. C., April 11.—A card of 57, turned in by E. C. Beall of Uniontown, won the low score trophy in the qualifying round of the annual April golf tournament, which opened at course No. 2 today.

Fourteen qualified out of the field of seventy-six entrants. Robert Hunter of Norton was second in the qualifying round with 79, but withdrew from the tournament.

The first sixteen, in addition to Beall, follow:

C. A. Hartwell, Boston, 82; H. G. Fowles, Pittsfield, 88; A. P. Johnson, 84; C. F. Fowles, Pittsburgh, 85; F. S. Barnes, 85; T. A. Kelley, Southern Pines, 83; G. C. Gandy, 83; W. E. Miller, 82; W. L. CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO.

LEAVING nothing, we believe, unprovided, we announce displays to-day which show this store, anticipating the universal demand spring would see for sports apparel, planned early, thoroughly and well.

To-day's presentation is in the nature of an informal introduction to these splendidly complete assortments, which offer everything in "sports clothes a gentlewoman will want" in her outdoor activities, as well as sports apparel for the woman with no pastime hobby, but who selects this fashion for its becomingness and picturesque charm.

Brilliant in Coloring Simple, Smart in Line

Sports Coats of Striped Silks Featured at $27.50

For motoring, cross country driving, a dash into town, these are the coats summer will see.

And it is predicted that sports coats will rule in town as well as country—that coats such as these will be worn by the women "who know" over the daintiest of frocks as well as practically with separate skirts.

From Assortments the Height of Completeness

The Striped Faïfle Coats
at $27.50
Pictured. Are Specially Featured.

As interesting are the sports coats of wool and silk jersey which range in price from $20 to $55.

Sports Coats of Striped Radium Silks—

And of Italian silks, are in wonderful color effects, emeralds, gold, maize, pink, purples, American beauty tints, varying in price, according to the styles, from $18.75, $20, $27.50 to $60.

At $52.50 Sports Coats of Khaki Kool Are Particularly Notable in Value and Style.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Sports Blouses Smartly Varied Of Linens, Silks and Crepe de Chine

The sports blouse has become a potent factor in every wardrobe of this new season.

For women realize the delightful adaptability for every sort of practical need afforded by these blouses designed primarily for pastime wear.

At $2.95 Are Sports Blouses of White Linen

In the jaunty style pictured at the left, inspired by the simple, becoming lines of the Norfolk.

At $10.75 Are Smocks of Crepe de Chine.

Fascinating affairs, indeed, are these smocks in all white or beautiful rose color with white.

At $18.75—"Slip-Over" Blouses of Crepe de Chine In a New, Uncommonly Attractive Style.

The color combinations are as irresistibly lovely as is the style of the blouse. Brilliant tints of coral or maize are combined with purple—the sash being purple.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Featuring the New Tulle and Ostrich Garments in This Presentation of Easter Millinery

NOTHING could be more delightfully appropriate than this latest dictate of millinery mode.

For surely the airy loveliness of tulle, the soft, ethereal effect of ostrich fantasies, seem to embody the very spirit of Spring and Easter.

These Newest Hats Are Offered In Two Special Groups at $12.50 and $15

In a fascinating variety of shapes, large and small, to accord with every varied type of Easter costume and in charming color effects, some dark relieved by brilliant dashes of color, others in exquisitely blended pastel tints—unusual groups at $12.50 and $15.

Fifth Floor, South Room.

TOGETHER with sports apparel the accessories of dress which most appropriately accompany the fashion are provided by this store—

Sports Shoes, Sports Hats, Sports Neckwear, Sports Corsets, Knitted Sports Coats and Coat-Sweaters.

Indeed, these new displays disclose many originations in spring apparel for the "out-of-doors" woman.

The Final Degree of Smartness Attained by Sports Suits for Women As These Assortments Reveal Them

Outdoor life called upon fashion and that ingenious artist responded with apparel, becoming, infinitely smart, and most remarkably practical—

Suits such as these that will surely make any woman "fit into the picture" of summer activities.

Sports Suits of Wool Jersey Are Splendid Values at $25.

The style is shown in the picture at the right. In vivid greens and rose shades and in gold and white.

Sports Suits of Silk Jersey Are $30 and $37.50

At $37.50 in the style sketched at the left with the longer coat adaptable for separate wear.

At $30 also smart sports suits of this favored fabric broadly striped in the new colors of summer.

Sports Suits of Tweeds, Flannels and Serges

Sports Suits of Khaki Kool and Shantungs.

The flannels and serges in white, the shantungs in the new polka dotted effects and every suit the latest version in style. Prices vary accordingly from $25 to $87.50.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

The Stripe's the Thing in The New Sports Skirts At $5.75 and $7.75

The far-seeing woman is choosing not one but several of the sports skirts these assortments now offer.

To her discriminating eyes they present unusual possibilities for varying the mode of sports wear, and a delightful way of introducing life and zest into her apparel for those many occasions termed "all-around."

At $5.75 the Candy Striped Skirts, Sketched at the Left.

At $7.75 the Awning Striped Skirts, Sketched at the Right.

Both offer a splendid choice in color effects, each presents a new and smart version of sports styles.

Sports Skirts From $3.95 to $12.75 This includes sports skirts of cotton gabardines, in white as well as stripes, of flecked sponge, of "domino" check and cretonne motifs. The collections are indeed most inviting for early choosing.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Women's Easter Neckwear

Wherein Lies the Cachet of the Costume

Stock and frill, cape and ruff, collar and cuff—these are the final fascinating frills without which the most carefully planned Easter toilette cannot hope to achieve fullest charm and distinction.

Malines Ruffs Specially Priced at $1.50

In the style pictured above. Others have exquisite touches of rosebud trimmings and still others have smart ribbon bows. Priced, according to style and material, from $1.50 to $5.95.

Hand-Embroidered Net Collars, Special, 75c—These in the deep-back sailor collar fashion so much favors this season. Two styles—one pictured above.

Georgette Crepe Collars, with frills, from $1.95 to $5. Hand-Embroidered Organie Sets, Special, $1—All white, or white with the new spring colors—come these infinitely dainty accessories. Others, $1.95 to $5.

Wool scarfs, very smart for motoring, $1 to $5. The new pleatings in spring colors, 25c to $1.75 yard.

We Believe It Will Prove Decidedly Advantageous to Make Selections This Month from This Store's Present Stocks of Famous Whittall Rugs

IN the light of conditions tending to prove it will be improbable that the present prices on Whittall rugs can be maintained for any extended period in the future, we believe our patrons should be informed that special advantages will accrue to those who make contemplated purchases this month from this store's present collections.

Our stocks of M. J. Whittall Anglo-Persian Rugs are probably the most complete and comprehensive in the middle west.

The variety of designs and colorings make the selection of a Whittall rug for any purpose a decided pleasure.

Our present assortments disclose remarkably faithful reproductions of famous Oriental designs, including antique Chinese carpets, old Bokhara, antique Khorassan, Feraghan and Kurdish, the texture-quality of Whittall rugs lending itself most admirably to reproductions of these wonderful Oriental carpets.

Unusually wide assortments are offered in each of the following groups:

Whittall Rugs, size 22x36 inches, now $4.75

Whittall Rugs, size 27x54 inches, now $7.00

Whittall Rugs, size 4 ft., 6 ins., x 7 ft., 6 ins., now $23.25

Whittall Rugs, size 6 ft. x 9 ft. now $42.00

Whittall Rugs, 8 ft. 3 in. x 10 ft. 6 in., now $61.75

Whittall Rugs, size 9 ft. x 15 ft., now $93.25

Whittall Rugs, size 10 ft. 6 in. x 12 ft., now $93.25

Whittall Rugs, 10 ft. 6 in. x 13 ft. 6 in., now $105

USE OF PREPAREDNESS.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

The great stone armory at Sixteenth street and Michigan avenue was burning. Nearly 500 men were already within its walls. They were adjusting their blouses, filling their canteens, buckling on their belts, putting the last lick of polish on their rifles.

Inside Sixteenth street was full of smoke and larger motor cars. Every man more men hurried into the arsenal, setting the last lick of polish on their rifles.

The filled twenty taxicabs to overflow. Pressing the speed laws down the avenue in procession down the avenue to the northwest end and out into the city.

Battle of Sharp Orders.

In headquarters room at the armory a dozen field officers bent over their maps. Down on the drill floor the men of the regiment, with the machine gun company, were falling in for a final review.

"We'll start," said Col. Sanborn, final.

Col. Maj. Alvin Davis, Maj. John V. Clinton and Maj. Edward Bittell hurried over to take command of their respective battalions. There was a rattle of gun orders.

To complete one after the other, with a short interval between, marched out and were loaded into the waiting gun. It took nearly 200 motor cars. Each was filled with soldiers, their rifles protruding through the windows and over the windshields. They lined the avenue with a masking tide of fire. All the soldiers in town took to the outer end of the musical pier, which was far too crowded. Big buildings downtown ran out to the end of Milwaukee avenue blossomed with the faces of eager spectators.

The Red Army.

The first company, with an hour's start flying motor cars, is the Red Army, invading Chicago from the north. The rest of the regiment is the Red Army, charged with the duty of protecting the city from their attack.

This is a somewhat imaginative picture of what will happen when Col. Sanborn of the First Infantry, I. N. G., holds the emergency test he is planning for some Sunday afternoon before July 16, when the command goes into its annual encampment for eight days at Fort Sheridan.

Whether any notice is going to call all men to gather at the armory or a few to reveal a surprise attack of a mythical enemy. At the same time the big taxicabs will be on several of the big taxicab houses to volunteer the use of some of their machines for the afternoon.

Tactical Walk Sunday.

The first company will have the job of making an attack in whatever way it chooses on a certain specified point. The rest will throw out scouts and make the necessary details to defend the point.

In preparation for this field work the rest of the regiment will spend next Sunday in making a tactical walk over the greater part of Ravinia, for the purpose of making maps and studying the terrain.

None of the twelve companies in the regiment has a clubroom of its own in the city. Every man in the regiment uses the shower baths, the big rooms for basketball and other sports, and the bowling alleys. He is equipped with all the ammunition he needs on the gun range at Camp Logan, north of Waukegan, with free transportation and comfortable barracks to sleep in.

The only expense is his meals,

A BABY-GRAND OPERA AT THE CHICAGO

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

"HER SOLDIER BOY." A comic play by Victor Leon and Rose Johnson Young, with score by Emmett Kilian, and produced by Romberg, presented at the Chicago theater, Chicago, April 11, 1916. The cast:

Alain Tanner Arthur Albrecht
Charlotte DeMeyer Lawrence Leonard
Desires Evelyn Vaughn
Marie DeMeyer Margaret Romaine
Major Arturo DeMeyer Ethel Brandon
Baron Von Arvedt Donald Macmillan
Michael O'Day Scott Walsh
Albertine Arnold Weisz
Amy Lee Frank Gilligan
Karl von Arvedt Karl von Arvedt

At the opening of the play, the curtain fell.

W HATEVER yearning there may exist in this neighborhood for musical romance of the polite and cleanly sort may be justified at the Chicago theater, where last evening "Her Soldier Boy" began its American adventure. The piece is a timely bit of fiction based on the prevailing European discord, with Flanders as its locale, and the soldiers and sweethearts of that erstwhile com- munity as the characters therein. It has a comic accompaniment of lousy music, and it is well sung and prettily well acted by a band of expert troubadours, led by Miss Margaret Romaine. It is not a funny play; clownishness impedes not acceleration for popularized progress, and it depends for popularity upon song and such purple mists of sentiment as may arise from a kindred amour between the tenor and the prima donna. It is smartly and aptly done, though last night it moved with a pernicious somnolence that was little less than crucial. The dress is pretty and atmospheric, the movement harmonious and eloquent, and the young women of the chorus, though not particularly radiant as to their physical attributes, are bright, spirited, melodious, and possessed of personality.

Consequently this prudent guidepost will evade its function for the moment and will point neither to nor from the Chicago theater and "Her Soldier Boy." It will, however, be courageous enough to counsel those who like a love story, interspersed by frequent anthems of an odorous, amorous sort, and who do not demand in their operettas the comic side and the pouty nose, the neck fall and the wheeze, to attend "Her Soldier Boy" and, be at least, satisfied. Canaries similar to "Her Soldier Boy" have not in the past been welcome to our city, whose taste in such matters is a trifle dubious.

Consequently this prudent guidepost will evade its function for the moment and will point neither to nor from the Chicago theater and "Her Soldier Boy." Canaries similar to "Her Soldier Boy" have not in the past been welcome to our city, whose taste in such matters is a trifle dubious.

What think you, was the mission of Mr. Arthur Albrecht, the colorless tenor, in at a quarter each. And every year there is an encampment of eight days duration at some one of the military reservations, under direction of a regular army officer.

The armory is open every day in the year, and besides the drill one night each week there is a succession of intercamp athletic contests, with a grand climax when the annual athletic meet of the regiment is held, which is open to all amateurs. The regiment is the oldest in the state and the only one which owns its own memory, worth more than $200,000.

What Is the Matter?

Its officers are men of high intelligence and long training. Col. Sanborn and Lieut. Col. Eddy enlisted on the same March day, nearly forty years ago, and have risen side by side from the ranks.

And yet—and yet—the regiment has a smaller number of enlisted men now than it had one year or two years ago, before the great war began. What is the matter?

If either the Hay Bill or the Chamberlain Bill passes congress will it be signed by the president of the state? Will it be voted to raise the pay to $20,000 annual guardsmen—while there are now about $1,000. If the present regiments cannot keep their ranks full, even to the minimum requirement, how shall the new regiments be recruited?

Two Reasons.

There are a number of reasons why the national guard is not more popular. Among them two are the most prominent.

The first is the opposition of the labor unions, which object to the national guard because of the government of the state may be used to put it out of strike duty.

At certain times and in a few states there seems to be no doubt serious abuses have resulted.

But many union labor men are now taking a broader view of the case. Quite recently the Illinois State Federation of Miners appealed on patriotic grounds—the clause in their constitution which forbade members to join the guard.

With the entry of a more serious handicap to the complete success of the national guard is the fact that many—if not most—employers discourage their employees from joining. Their chief objection seems to be that employees belonging to the guard are compelled to go into camp eight days each year, with the further possibility of being called out for active duty at any time.

"Tip" for Employers.

There seems to be no doubt that the one which would be most popular is the ranks of the national guard—nothing of the proposed new regiments would be a general agreement on the part of employers to encourage their men to enlist. If they would agree not only to willingly permit their employees to go to annual encampments, but also to pay for them their salaries for the eight days, they would do their part to make the guard a reality, worthy of its name.

At the same time, the guard would be willing to renew their wows and we went ahead as before," said the witness.

"I'm about three weeks later to move to Afghan, Minn., and then to Idaho," he said. "After ten years' work in the watch factory I was married to Loretta Montanye, then a noted housewife.

"A little later my husband and I traveled—organizing dress cutting schools. We were at this for three years, then returned to Elgin."

Harmless Request.

"When did you meet Maj. Sherman?" asked Attorney Gunzel, counsel for the defendant.

"When we moved to Martin's flat. I didn't even know he was there in our flat. I was about three weeks later to move to Afghan, Minn., and then to Idaho," he said. "After ten years' work in the watch factory I was married to Loretta Montanye, then a noted housewife.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

and the New York Globe.

HAVING discussed caps, rule one in the rule of three in spring modes, we come to rules two and three, panniers and crinolines. All skirts are wide and whether stiffened by crinoline or hoop or not they effect a decided result. As for the pampered methods of the seamstress and designer, there are overskirts, under-skirts, flounces, draperies, puffings, shirtings, headings, bandings, frills that stand up, and frills that fall down, side frills, bustle frills, insets of contrasting fabrics, scallops, points, yokes, motifs embroidered or appliqued in conventional horizontal bands, ribbons—many ribbons—in fact, any sort of furrowed one could fancy is found on this season's skirt.

Probably the ingenuity of the designers of Paris is responsible for this heavy crop of trimmings seen on our own skirts, so far as we can see them from continuous news and trimmings in great numbers as they did each season before the war, they have employed with unheeded of cleverness the old materials and are making new uses of them. The results are exceedingly beautiful and altogether novel, again proving that Paris is first of all, a creator.

Hardy Border Plants: Perennial Phlox.

A place somewhere near the head of the list of the best hardy perennials is not at the head of the list. I would place the perennial phlox.

This for several reasons: It is hardy anywhere in the north. It does well in almost any kind of soil. It blooms with great profusion, and its range of colors is so wide that nearly all taste can be suited.

It is one of the plants that require little attention, therefore well adapted to the requirements of the woman who has not a great deal of time to devote to gardening. Once established, it is good for an indefinite period if given a small amount of attention each season. This attention consists in applying some good fertilizer to the plant and digging it in well about its roots, and in keeping the grass from crowding in upon it.

Once in every three years it is well to take up the old plants and divide them, throwing out the oldest and least healthy roots. Every piece of root that can be broken from the crown of the old plant will be acid. Foods are then likely to ferment, and make an acid which is more deleterious than the acid foods. The food carries these rank acids to the remotest cells, but survives itself for a long time, although one may expect trouble at almost any spot in the body.

The surest way to neutralize acid conditions, as well as acid forming foods, is to eat green vegetables in abundance, and that is why doctors are now frequently prescribing a vegetarian diet for a fixed time. The following type of vegetarian menu may be varied in a hundred ways:

Cream soup.
A steamed or baked vegetable and a little bread and butter.
A green salad, such as cress, without dressing.

Junket or custard creams.
Milk is not an acid forming food, although an acid so easily develops in it. Besides this, it sometimes seems to cause indigestion because of too acid conditions in the stomach, which cause the formation of great curds.

Oyster Plant Soups.
Scrub muddy roots, drop in boiling water for five minutes, rub them with a few dice of bacon, cook a little longer, which all cooks away, mash, add a little thickened milk. Half a dozen recipes are sufficient for one pint of milk enriched with a little butter and finally with a tablespoon of cream per serving.

Flickerings from FILM LAND

Plenty of Punch to Colonial Film.

BY KITTY KELLY.

THE comical woes of a human life-time packed into an hour's shortening is what "Colonial Child" offers at the Colonial. It is an Ince picture, one of C. Gardner Sullivan's "thinking" productions, cram full of grim drama and defeated purpose.

It so reeks with humor that it is the quietest sort of melodrama, but the stress is on not so much the happenings as the meanings of the happenings. Done with great artistry, there is no skipping over of sentimentalism; the grim story goes on with cuteness, and one realizes, while revolting at the piccies and things in it, that the manner of presentation is the stroke of genius.

For his theme Mr. Sullivan has sought a new angle, the idea that immigrant girls are the prey of masculine vultures, and he has made a pretty tangle out of the human threads he has drawn together in his plot. He shows that our vaunted civilization can easily be on the brink of misery.

His immigrant is a Russian girl, and in the showing of her early life there is richest Russian atmosphere introduced in the little village, in the village types, and then in the handling of the Kiev massacre which plunged the child of nature straight into the whirlpool of civilization that left her a wreck.

She comes to America again the Russian atmosphere is strong, where she lives with her uncle and works in his sweatshop, until his protecting political power makes her his prey.

Splendid playing characters, every member of the cast, from William H. Thompson to the veriest extra. Mr. Thompson is the rarest character man, except George Fawcett, to be viewed. Yet here one cannot forget Frank Keenan in "The Stepping Stones." The three break pretty even for celluloid capitalistic sining.

Anita Lehr, the broken Russian girl, faultless casting, fine handling and conduct of how such a girl would be viewed. The selfish ingenue daughter of Mrs. McNamee, is played effectively by Dorothy Dalton, a Chicago girl.

It is altogether a big picture, but it's not the kind to be going to see for an afternoon's pleasant entertainment.

Society and EntertainmentsHow She Turned Into a Historian.

BY CINDERELLA.

NEVER have I thought of historian as a money being with honest specialties and expansive whiskers—when one thinks about it at all. Rather not as a pretty and attractive young woman.

The Friday club and the Monday League's guild meeting of the Fourth Presbyterian church changed one's news in respect when they each presented Miss Estelle Ward of Evanston to large and distinguished audience.

For Miss Ward is an historian and has brought fame upon herself by writing a book of the Duke of Albermarle.

Why the Duke of Albermarle, you naturally ask, and the answer is that Miss Ward inherited from an ancestress who lived in the lovely and sophisticated little town of Bangor, Me., a quantity of papers and letters from great people, among whom letters from Washington. These led to a desire to write his romantic story, and this led to the discovery that the papers and documents throw the most light upon the duke's career were in the library at Welbeck abbey.

Further, Mr. and Mrs. Ward and their daughter set out for England armed only with letters of introduction in literary circles, with an extra special letter from a Washington highbrow to the librarian at Welbeck abbey, chief domicile of the Duke of Portland.

Arrived at a London hotel, Miss Ward and her letter to the guardian of the precious documents at Welbeck, and the answer was a charming note from the Duke of Portland's daughter, Lady Victoria Cavendish Bentinck, who asked the American visitor to stay the night at the abbey.

The Duke is most entertaining on the subject of her visit to the Portlands. The automobiles, the massive footmen, the enormous abbey, the towering Portland family, all filled the Evanston girl bright at first.

Lady Victoria, a tall, slim blonde, was perfectly charming, and did the honors when her father arrived. The late arrival of the Duke of Portland was the signal for more agitation, as Miss Ward knew him only from his Sargent portrait, a weighty nobleman of 300 pounds or so, who seemed to be detecting something.

But the Duke of Portland turned out to be the jolliest host ever. He conducted his young guest to the magnificent library and announced that he was going to help in her research, saying: "If there's anything you're going to find out about Albermarle, I'm going to know it, too."

The librarian at Welbeck turned out to be like a wonderful Wagnerian gnome, full of mysterious knowledge and lore, and the hours flew.

Miss Ward's next visit to Welbeck was over a week end, and another included the Christmas holidays and a house party.

One day the duke said to her: "If ever I commit a crime, I don't want you to tell me!"

The Duchess of Portland, tall, slender, eyes sparkling with gleaming pearls and always the most graceful matron in society, was equally cordial and interesting in her American guest.

Now the result of this trip, the result of the Duke of Albermarle, is many a boudoir and library table.

Gotham Society Happenings.

New York, April 11.—(Special)—Mabel Ruth Hinnens has been selected by Miss Dorothy E. Exley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Rastovius, to be maid of honor at the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Fuller, Miss Martha Clow, Miss Helen Pauling, Miss Isabelle Robbins Miss Gladys High, and Miss Julia Head.

Information headquarters has been established at the Virginia hotel through the courtesy of Alexander Dryburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Vierling of 449 Kenwood avenue have returned from New Orleans.

Miss French Jewett Johnson of 55 East Division street and Miss Mabel John of 200 Michigan avenue are expected home from California.

Miss Mary Wade of 2524 Michigan avenue will open a beauty shop Saturday afternoon for a charity card party to be given for the benefit of the French peasants.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Hinnens and Frank C. Exley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Exley of Birchwood, took place last Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hinnens, 1832 Greenleaf avenue. The Rev. J. H. Hayes officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Hinnens, maid of honor and four bridesmaids, Miss Marion Holmes of Madison, Miss Grace Corlett, Miss Ariel Long of Evansville, Miss Florence Hinnens and Miss Grace Douglas Pierce, George Gordon Sandiland, Baron Torquigen of Calder house, Edinburgh, Scotland. The baron is in active service with the British army.

The bride's gown was of net and lace. She wore a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. After a six weeks' tour of California, Mr. and Mrs. Exley will be at home in Chicago.

NEWS OF THE FINANCIAL WORLD

It is announced that Daves Bros., together with E. G. Cowdry and Ferdinand R. Bain, have completed negotiations for the consolidation of a number of southern California gas properties. The concern is known as the Peoples Gas Company of California, and about $20,000,000 is involved in the deal. The new company will take over the properties previously owned by the Southern California Gas company and the Southern California Edison company. Mr. Bain will be president of the consolidated corporation.

Wall street gossip is to the effect that a pool has been put up in the stock of the Leo Tire and Rubber Company. The shares are quoted at $50. They have no par value. Directors of the company are scheduled to meet late in the month and are expected to declare an initial dividend.

Copper producers announce that the purchase of 400,000,000 pounds of copper by England, together with the tonnages taken by domestic consumers, is likely to bring about a shortage of copper for the remainder of the year. The market is bare of June metal, several of the largest producers in the country not having a pound of this delivery available for sale at the present time. The price of August and September deliveries are sold at $13,400,000, an increase of $3,731,000, or 17 per cent, compared with the corresponding month last year.

Friends of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Tin Company say their earnings are running at the rate of $100,000 per cent on the common stock. Not much has been heard of Sloss-Sheffield earnings in the general stock market campaign.

The Canadian Pacific Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern made a new high record of earnings for March, with total gross of $17,344,000, an increase of $3,731,000, or 27 per cent, and an advance to 28 cents is expected shortly.

Shareholders of the White Motor company, a subsidiary of the White Motor company, voted to reduce the capital stock from $80,000,000 to $50,000. No official statement of earnings was issued, but it was said after the meeting that net earnings last year were approximately 50 per cent on the $16,000,000 capital of the White Motor company.

VOLUME BELOW AVERAGE

New York, April 11.—Extreme dullness was the keynote of the market yesterday, with operations falling far below recent averages. There was some promise of activity and strength at the outset, but this was dissipated by midday. The balance of the session was one irregular period of stagnation and narrow price changes.

Superficially, at least, dealings were again restricted by the uncertainties surrounding the situation in Asia, but initial prices were mainly better; in fact, some very decided gains were registered, met by moderate offerings, which soon effected most gains.

But these, as usual, were limited to stocks supposedly under control of pools or of cliques. Advances in these issues were Crucible Steel Leads.

The only notable exceptions to this tendency were Crucible Steel, which led the day's trading in an extremely active manner, and the railroads, which showed 21,000,000 shares traded.

While the railroads were held in check by the new record.

Chandler Motors also scored a new maximum at 90%, and Ingraham

Bank achieved a like distinction on its rise to 250.

New Haven was singled out for sale during the first hours, declining 2% to 60% in connection with reports of unfavorable

March earnings at the only independently Louisville and Nashville. Southern Railways preferred fell in a point each. New York, Chicago, and

St. Louis second preferred, on a single sale, dropped 6% to 50.

Marcus lost some of their recent prominence and strength, as did also United States Industrial Alcohol, petroleums and shares. No special significance attached to movements in the oil companies, which were active spots, while iron, steel, and shell oil shares were firm. American securities were

Anchored to Reliability

OUR powerful chain of Upstairs Clothing Stores extends from coast to coast. No lure of gold, no prospects of gain could ever swerve us from the Square Deal rules we laid down when we first started. To that our enormous growth and success are directly due. This new Chicago store is one of the strongest links in the chain. We have come here to stay—to do business with you on the solid anchorage of reliability. Our ten-year lease on this most prominent clothing corner is our bond to the men of Illinois.

Store Opens Saturday, April 15th

We believe in and practice the Square Deal. We guarantee every word written, printed or spoken in our behalf, by any one of our employees and are personally present in the store to see every promise fulfilled. Every move, step and detail of our every transaction is based only along lines exclusively devoted to the greatest interest of our customers.

We Sell Men's $25.00
Suits and Overcoats
Every Day in the Year
at Our One $15 Price

We, as the originators of the upstairs, one price, square deal clothing business, were the first to make this statement. Our merchandise will best prove its Truth. Our past growth, our past success, our winning to our banner a nation-wide army of friends and customers is added proof that into no detail of our business even a particle of exaggeration or misrepresentation is allowed to creep.

Be among those wise buyers who, at the very opening of our store, investigate for themselves our methods, our policies, our price, our clothing and our reliability. We guarantee absolute satisfaction and give it. Our guarantee covers perfect fitting without charge for alterations. You will find us selling the highest grade clothing coming from prominent manufacturers, and among these is our own eastern manufacturing plant.
